FATE OF AMUNDSEN STILL MYSTERY; LESS FAVORABLE WEATHER

Dispatch From Spitzbergen Reports No News From Polar Explorer Up to 2 A. M. Today.

SOME DEPRESSION AMONG HIS PARTY
If Planes Were Damaged Expedition Will Have a Long and Dangerous Return Journey.

By H. SUNDBY-HANSEN.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
OSLO, Norway, May 25.—A special radiogram just received from Spitzbergen says the temperature has dropped to zero Fahrenheit and that a low pressure area extends over the polar basin. Even the most optimistic now fear that Amundsen's return to Spitzbergen by plane is out of the question.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 25.—Up to 2:15 o'clock this afternoon the North American Newspaper Alliance had received no word from the Amundsen-Ellsworth seaplanes since their departure Thursday afternoon from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, for a flight to the North Pole. This was announced at that hour through the Associated Press by Loring Fleckinger, general manager of the alliance.

By the Associated Press.
OSLO, Norway, May 25.—The Norwegian capital at 9:54 o'clock this morning was still without news from Capt. Roald Amundsen. A dispatch from Spitzbergen to the Shipping Gazette here says no news has been received there regarding the Amundsen polar flight expedition up to 2 o'clock this morning.

The dispatch reads: "As late as 2 a. m. today, there was no news of Amundsen. The bulky tone of the expedition's members has returned to Wellman's Bay, having patrolled north and east of Dane's Island. She found ice conditions difficult."

The dispatch added that "Among members of the expedition a certain amount of depression prevailed because of Amundsen's non-appearance. If their flying notes were damaged, the members of the expedition will have a long and dangerous return journey."

"The weather is now cloudy with a raw temperature which has dropped to below zero."

"From the top of Amsterdam Island the captain of the Fram saw open water to the northward, where the machines might have descended."

Disquieting Report Regarding Weather

By H. SUNDBY-HANSEN.
(Copyright, 1925.)
OSLO, Norway, May 25.—The Government Weather Bureau is issuing a disquieting bulletin early today indicating that a clear polar weather upon which the fate of Roald Amundsen probably depends is nearing a termination. Reports from Siberian Russian stations indicate a low-pressure area moving toward the pole. It was impossible to predict definitely when the change would come, as there was no way of knowing how far north the low-pressure area had advanced.

It was reported here late last night that the Fram had radioed from Spitzbergen that weather conditions were somewhat better than those of Saturday. It was still cloudy, but not sufficiently to prevent safe flying with fair visibility. Meteorologists report continued clear weather over the polar basin. In the event of a storm blowing up from Siberia, it is thought that the winds would be southward, aiding Amundsen on his return, but if he is delayed he probably will encounter heavy snow and clouds, and weather sets in, the Fram and the Hoby will leave Wellman's Bay, whether they returned yesterday and in accordance with Amundsen's instruction to proceed north for reconnaissance along the edge of the ice barrier where there

ST. LOUIS TRAIN HITS COW, ENGINE, FOUR CARS DITCHED

Animal, Standing on a Switch, Spills It in Impact—No One Hurt Seriously.

By the Associated Press.
BRISTOW, Ok., May 25.—Six coaches of a St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train, northbound Oklahoma City to St. Louis, left the tracks three miles south of here shortly before noon today. Passengers were shaken up and the fireman and engineer were scalded. No one was injured seriously.

The train struck a cow standing on a switch. The impact split the switch, members of the train crew said. The engine and four cars rolled over into a 10-foot ditch. Two other cars left the track but remained upright and the last two cars on the train did not leave the rails.

A number of doctors rushed to the wreck in motor cars, but found it necessary to bring only a few negroes to Bristol for treatment. All white passengers who had suffered minor injuries were treated at the track side. The negroes were in the first passenger coach behind the mail and baggage cars.

A. W. Binkley, engineer, and N. B. Roby, fireman, were scalded when they jumped as their engine went over.

SALE OF 4.4 BEER SLACKENS

By the Associated Press.
WINDSOR, Ontario, May 25.—Sale of 4.4 beer to Americans slackened markedly here yesterday with the promulgation of regulations that the beverage must be taken as part of a meal. Several hotels provided accommodations for Americans by furnishing a "lunch" with beer sold, but places where food was sold did virtually no business.

Because of the cold, rainy weather yesterday persons crossing from Detroit to Windsor by ferry were estimated to be less than the usual Sunday crowd before beer went on sale.

Ability Meets Opportunity

The one place in St. Louis where ability and opportunity meet most frequently is unquestionably the "Help Wanted" columns of the Post-Dispatch.

For many years the Post-Dispatch has been putting more men in touch with jobs and more jobs in touch with men than any other means or method.

If you have ability in any direction and want to meet with better opportunity to demonstrate your ability, make it a daily practice to read the "Help Wanted" advertisements in the Post-Dispatch.

G. H. WILLIAMS NAMED SENATOR BY GOV. BAKER

Former Circuit Judge, Resident of St. Louis County, Appointed as Successor to Spencer.

WILL SERVE UNTIL AFTER 1926 ELECTION

Executive, in Statement, Refers to "Much Unsolicited Advice" Received Regarding Appointment.

George H. Williams, former St. Louis Circuit Judge, living at Clayton and Watson roads, St. Louis County, was appointed by Gov. Baker today as United States Senator, to serve until after the election of November, 1926, in the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Selden P. Spencer.

Williams will be the third Republican to sit in the Senate from Missouri since the reconstruction period, the previous Republican Senators having been the late William Warner, who was elected by the Legislature in 1905, and Spencer, who was elected by people in 1915 and 1920.

Gov. Baker, who announced one week ago today that his mind was made up as to the selection of an appointee, declared in a statement issued today that he then had Williams in mind, and that he has not changed his mind at any time since.

Drive for Dickey Fails. The appointment would have been announced Saturday, it is believed, but for a drive in behalf of Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, which was started while Gov. Baker was on his way back to the capital from Southeast Missouri. The backers of Dickey were men whom the Governor could not refuse to hear, but their arguments did not change his decision.

The Governor said, early today, that he would make the announcement at 8:30 a. m. but when that time came he set 9:45 as the time and his typewritten announcement was given out promptly at that moment.

The Governor's statement referred to the "unsolicited advice" which he had received as to the senatorial appointment, but it also gave a reason for the benefit of Dickey, former Gov. Hyde and other aspirants in Western Missouri, why the appointment should go to the eastern part of the state. This reason is the fact that Senator Reed lives in Kansas City.

The death of Hon. Selden P. Spencer on the 13th of this month has created a vacancy in the United States Senate from Missouri which must be filled by appointment by the Governor. I am not unimpressed of the far-reaching importance of this appointment. I have received many suggestions and much unsolicited advice in regard to the matter.

Reasons for Choice. "The man that I appoint should come from the Eastern part of the State, since the senior Senator resides in Kansas City."

"My appointee should be honest and sincere. He should be a thorough student of the Constitution of the United States, as I believe that in governmental matters the Constitution should be the guide. The man that I appoint should also be a good public speaker. He should have the confidence of the people of this State. In fact, he should be thoroughly efficient along all lines. I have found such a man in the person of the Hon. George H. Williams of St. Louis County. From the time that I have given consideration to the appointment there has been no hesitancy in my own mind regarding Mr. Williams. I have confidence in his honor, integrity and efficiency. I am therefore appointing him United States Senator from Missouri to represent said State in the Senate of the United States until the vacancy therein is filled by election as provided by law."

The Governor has stated that no short term appointment will be made for the period between the November election of next year and the opening of a new session of Congress in March, 1927. The Senator elected in November will fill the short term also, the Governor says.

The fight for the Republican nomination to the Senate is expected to begin within a few months. Whether Williams will seek the nomination has not appeared, but former Gov. Hyde, Congressman Newton and possibly others are expected to contest for the place. For the Democratic nomination Congressman Hawes

NEWSPAPERS THAT PRINTED INCOME TAX LISTS UPHELD

United States Supreme Court Affirms Decision of Lower Tribunals — Case Had Been Appealed by Government.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 25.—Newspapers which published lists of income-tax payers and the amounts they paid last fall were upheld in doing so today by the Supreme Court. The court declared the newspapers were not guilty of a violation of the law in publishing income tax lists made available to public inspection in the offices of collectors of internal revenue. The cases appealed were those won by the Kansas City Journal-Post and the Baltimore Post in the lower courts which had held that any law prohibiting publication of information which Congress had directed the Internal Revenue Bureau to make available for public inspection, would be unconstitutional. This contention the Supreme Court in effect upheld. The opinion was delivered by Justice Sutherland, who said it was clearly the intention of Congress to make the lists public, whatever some persons might think of the wisdom of such a policy. Making them public, he said, carried with it the right of newspapers to publish them. No dissent was announced to the finding of the court.

MUCH DAMAGE TO CROPS CAUSED BY HEAVY FROST

Grain, Produce and Fruit in Missouri and Nearby States Nipped by Sudden Cold.

Heavy frosts which were general throughout Missouri, Illinois and nearby states following the sudden and unprecedented drop in temperature early yesterday, did considerable damage to garden crops, and in some places to grain, according to reports being received today. While St. Louis escaped the frost because of strong winds, the temperature dropped from a record high mark of nearly 84 per cent on last Friday, to a new low record of 38 at 6 a. m. today.

Frost was general throughout St. Louis County. Reports from all parts of the county indicated considerable damage to garden produce and some fruits, according to J. R. Hansen, County Agricultural Agent.

Hansen estimated the loss through damage to garden truck and fruits, chiefly strawberries and cherries, at approximately $700,000, or 10 per cent of their estimated value. The tomato crop, he said, was practically destroyed, while potatoes suffered severely.

Damage to Wheat. The damage to wheat, he estimated at about 3 per cent of the anticipated yield of 500,000 bushels. The frost was heaviest, the Farm Bureau reported, in the lowlands along the Meramec River.

Heavy Loss Near St. Charles. Heavy damage was reported from the vicinity of St. Charles, where the temperature reached a point between 31 and 32 degrees at about 4 a. m. today. Fruit was frozen, potatoes and tomatoes frozen, and slight damage was done to wheat, according to R. A. Langenbacher, county farm agent.

Exceptionally low temperatures and heavy frosts were reported from many parts of Missouri and Illinois. At Unionville, Kinderhook, Mexico and several other places in Missouri the temperature reached 30 degrees, and the drop was accompanied by severe frost. Columbia reported frost and a temperature of 32. At Warsaw much damage was done by the frost according to reports received today by the Weather Bureau here.

The frost caused sharp advances in the price of wheat and corn on the Merchants' Exchange today, reports of frost in Iowa suggesting necessity of replanting in such sections. Wheat for delivery on July contracts here rose 4 cents, bushels to $1.69 1/2 and corn for July delivery advanced 3 cents a bushel to $1.15 1/2.

The lowest temperature in St. Louis and vicinity tonight is expected to be between 45 and 50 degrees. Weather Forecaster Hayes said today. Another frost, however, is expected in the lowlands in Northeastern Illinois.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
POPULAR BLUFF, May 25.—With a drop of 51 degrees in 14 hours the mercury here this morning stood at 45 degrees. Cotton crops have been damaged considerably, according to F. H. Darnell, County Farm Agent, and other crops also suffered.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 25.—A heavy frost did extensive damage to fruit in Central Missouri last night. Gardens also suffered and corn was nipped. The temperature at 7 a. m. at Sedalia was 28 degrees above zero. The unusually cool weather during the greater part of the spring season has necessitated replanting of corn to a considerable extent.

THEATER MANAGER IN AUTO HELD UP; $3000 STOLEN

Cullen Espy, Employee of West End Lyric, Halted at Twentieth and Pine When on Way to Bank.

Daylight robbers held up Cullen Espy in his automobile at Twentieth and Pine streets at 11:15 a. m. today and took two packages, containing about $3000, belonging to the West End Lyric Theater, of which he is manager.

Espy was on his way from the theater, on Delmar boulevard near Euclid avenue, to the St. Louis National Bank, and was driving on Twentieth street, to deposit the money, which was from the Saturday night and Sunday receipts of the theater and the Lyric Skydome.

Espy drove east on Delmar and Washington boulevards, and noticed nothing out of the way until after he had turned south on Twentieth street. Then, in the mirror at his left, he saw that three men in a machine following him were putting handkerchiefs over their faces.

Delayed by Traffic. He started to speed up, but had to pause for traffic on Olive street, and at Pine street the pursuing car overtook him and crowded him to the curb.

One man jumped on the running board of his car, thrust a revolver toward him, and took the packages of money from the seat. He jumped off and returned to the car as the others, who were also armed, were coming to help him. All got into their car and drove either to Chestnut or Market street and then west.

Espy took the license number of the robbers' touring car, and the police started to look it up, believing that it would be found to be a stolen car, and probably would be abandoned by the robbers within a short time.

Held Up Once Before. This was the second time Espy has been robbed by these theater robbers. He was held up on the morning of Monday, Feb. 9, when about to get into his machine across the street from the theater, and was robbed of about $1000 also from the Saturday night and Sunday receipts. He saw two robbers at that time, and they were not masked. Other recent robberies of theaters belonging to the Skouras interests were at the Matinee Theater Feb. 1, when $650 was taken; the Grand Central, $2300, Dec. 25, last, and the downtown Lyric, $5000 Nov. 10.

Espy lives at 5589 Vernon avenue, and is a son of James C. Espy, former Police Board secretary, and brother of J. Reeves Espy, publicity director for Skouras Bros. He is 29 years old.

PRATHER PLEADS GUILTY IN BEER PROTECTION CASE

Former State Food and Drug Commissioner Co-Defendant With Heber Nations on Conspiracy Charge.

ACTION FOLLOWS SELECTION OF JURY

Other Defendants in Case Enter Guilty Pleas Leaving Nations Alone Facing Trial.

Charles S. Prather, former State Food and Drug Commissioner, pleaded guilty this afternoon, in Federal Court, to the charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act, on which he was a co-defendant in the case, and liable to a fine in case of conviction, entered a plea of not guilty in the morning, and withdrew it in the afternoon and pleaded guilty.

The plea followed his action, at this morning's opening session of the trial, in entering a plea of not guilty. As was told in the Post-Dispatch April 19, it has been expected since that time that he would plead guilty, and would testify against Nations.

The plea of guilty was entered after the selection of a jury had been completed. Company Also Admits Guilt. Nations, as was expected, entered a plea of not guilty. The Griesedieck Bros. Brewing Co., also a defendant in the case, and liable to a fine in case of conviction, entered a plea of not guilty in the morning, and withdrew it in the afternoon and pleaded guilty.

The other defendants in the case, Raymond B. Griesedieck, vice president and manager of the Griesedieck Bros. Brewing Co., who is the Government's chief witness, obtained a severance on the motion of John C. Dyott, chief Government prosecutor.

Questions as to Nations. In examining prospective jurors, Prosecutor Dyott asked each man whether he had received any of the printed matter sent at in the last few weeks in behalf of Nations, and similar matter attacking Dyott and alleging that he was the instrument of law violators seeking revenge on Nations; also, whether the prospective juror was a contributor to the funds of the Anti-Saloon League. The name of Supt. A. H. Post of the Missouri State Penitentiary, who was one of some of the matter sent through the mails.

One man said he had received some of the matter by mail, and that he was a member of Union Avenue Christian Church. Three men were excused on their statement that they had formed opinions. One of these said he was engaged in the manufacture of bottle containers and shipping cases, that he formerly sold to the liquor trade and still sells to soft drink concerns, and that he had no opinion, though not an irrevocable one, as to the case. Another said he knew R. B. Griesedieck and would be inclined to take his word if his testimony conflicted with that of some other witness known to him.

Questions Asked by Defense. Patrick H. Cullen of counsel for Nations asked the men if any of them was a member of any organization opposing the prohibition laws or was prejudiced against persons devoted to prohibition enforcement or the work of the Anti-Saloon League. No one replied.

All of the members of the jury are from St. Louis or St. Louis County. They are: John B. Gray, Frank E. Goyel, Charles L. Monroe, Henry V. Bailey, D. L. Meier, Arthur S. Morrill, Willard M. Love, Roy L. Newberry, Jesse S. Skinner and William Lyver.

Judge Paris was on the bench for the first time in five weeks, having undergone a minor operation lately.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General in charge of liquor prosecutions, sat with the Government counsel John B. Marshall, chief of the legal staff of the prohibition unit at Washington, and Dyott. Mrs. Willebrandt is under subpoena by the defense attorneys are Cullen and Charles G. Revell, former judge of the State Supreme Court.

W. C. T. U. Members in Court. A delegation of 36 members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, each woman displaying a white ribbon, sat in the spectators' place. Miss Fannie D. Robb, local secretary, said the W. C. T. U. members intended to lend their aid in the prosecution.

BOTTLE OF MILK CROSSES CONTINENT IN AN AIRPLANE

Test Made to See Whether It Can Be Delivered at Temperature at Which It Is Sent.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25.—A bottle of fresh milk, acquired here yesterday morning from San Francisco.

The milk, sealed in a vacuum at a temperature of 45 degrees Fahrenheit, was sent as a test to see whether such air shipments could be delivered at the temperature at which they were sent.

It was consigned to Dr. R. H. Ferguson of Chicago, a delegate to the Certified Milk Producers' Association convention here.

Taken from a cow in San Francisco Friday, it was tested for bacterial content, certified and sealed, and left that city the same day, arriving in New York Saturday night and was transferred to Atlantic City Sunday morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 25.—Helen Keller, noted blind-deaf woman, demonstrated to a large gathering at the First Congregational Church here yesterday that she could "feel" music from a radio set by placing her fingers on a specially constructed diagram connected with the receiving set.

She beat time with her hand as the congregation could see she was receiving the vibrations in the time of the piece. Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony" was chosen for the test, not merely because of its rounded periods, but because it was composed after Beethoven had lost his hearing.

Joe Azar, 6, 1003A Morrison Avenue, Strangled With Twine, Tied in Double Knot Under Ear.

POLICE UNABLE TO ADVANCE THEORY

Cap Found in Basement of Adjoining Flat Identified as That of Victim — No Threats Received.

The strangled and decomposed body of 6-year-old Joe Azar was found in a shed next door to his home, 1003A Morrison avenue, at 9 a. m. today, within a few minutes of exactly a week after he had disappeared from the vicinity of his home.

No theory to explain the crime has been evolved by the police, who had participated in the search for the boy after his disappearance. Relatives of the boy had looked in the shed last Tuesday, without serious thought of finding his body, and therefore did not look under a pile of tarpaulins in one corner. It was under this pile, and wrapped in a tarpaulin, that the body was found.

Around the boy's neck was a piece of stout, coarse hempen twine, about an eighth of an inch thick, tied with a tight double knot under the right ear and with an end about 18 inches long hanging loose.

Cap Identified. The body was in the $10 wooden shed in the rear of the flat at 1005 Morrison avenue, the lower floor of which is occupied by Joe's father, a painter, and his wife. Later, a cap found by a Police Sergeant in the basement of the Hyner flat, was identified by the dead boy's father and aunt as the one he was wearing the day he disappeared. It was lying behind a half-filled sack of sand in the main room of the basement, near the door to a small room, which is next to the backyard door.

Near the cap were found two buttons, whitish in color, one of which was like those on the boy's undershirt. The buttons, when examined at the morgue, showed a tear where a button might have been jerked off, but the garment, a short cotton union suit, was torn while being removed from the body at the morgue. The buttons found in the cellar, resembling those in the union suit, is small, with two slits of a variety commonly used on children's underwear. The other one found is larger, like those sometimes used for ornamental effect.

Twine in Basement. Elsewhere in the basement of this flat was found about 20 feet of twine, loosely rolled, which Police Captain Kirk declared was identical in quality with the twine knotted around the boy's neck. Several stretches of twine of this same kind, apparently used for clotheslines, spanned the basement.

It is about 20 feet from the shed through the back yard to the basement door opening into the small room. On this outer door, which is not equipped with a lock, is the sign, "Please Do Not Leave This Door Open." Absence of a lock made the cellar of easy access to any one at any time.

Calvin Voyles of 501 Park avenue, a painter, found the body this morning in going to the shed to borrow a tarpaulin for which the police understood Hyner had given him permission. Hyner was not at home at the time. When Voyles opened the shed door he noted an odor and sent for the police. Capt. Kirk and other officers entered the shed and removed the body.

Enfolded in Tarpaulin. The body was found to be closely enfolded in one tarpaulin, which caused the police to believe that the murderer was an adult. An old piece of awning was directly over this, while on top of it were some empty paint cans.

Hyner was sent for by the police, and returned to his home. He refused to answer questions of reporters, but told the police that he and another painter, whose name he declared he had forgotten, mixed some paint in the shed yesterday noon, and threw the empty cans into a corner. He said that he noticed no odor in the shed at the time, but also said he could not notice the odor today. Mrs.

CITIZEN AIDS IN TAKING DRIVER IN AUTO FATALITY

Man Had Tried to Escape After Striking and Fatally Injuring Mrs. Emma Davis, 35.

WHISKY FOUND IN HIS MACHINE

Mrs. Emma Massey, Who Was Struck by Auto of Physician May 21, Dies of Injuries.

The alertness of a passing motorist yesterday afternoon prevented the escape of a drink-buddled automobile driver, who drove from the scene after fatally injuring Mrs. Emma Davis, 35 years old, 1811 A La Salle street, who was struck at 1:50 p. m. while crossing Chouteau avenue at Seventh boulevard.

Mrs. Davis was knocked down and run over by a Ford coupe driven east on Chouteau avenue. The driver turned north in Seventh street and was followed by Mathias Ahrens, who was driving the scene in his own car at the time of the accident. Ahrens followed to Second and Poplar streets, where he picked up two policemen, and at Second and Walnut streets overhauled the fleeing driver.

At South Street Police Station the driver of the Ford described himself as Philip Elzar, 35, a merchant, living at 1813 Mississippi avenue. A pint bottle partially filled with whisky was found in his car. Elzar admitted having been drinking, according to police, declaring he did not know his machine had struck Mrs. Davis. He was held pending an inquest.

Mrs. Davis died before an ambulance could convey her to city hospital. She suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Woman, 61, Struck by Auto on May 21, Dies in Hospital.

Mrs. Emma Massey, 61 years old, of 2334 Albion place, died at St. John's Hospital at 12:30 p. m. yesterday of injuries suffered at 3:30 p. m. May 21, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. William P. Heyde, 1215 South Jefferson avenue, at Eads Bridge and Jefferson avenues.

Mrs. Massey was crossing Jefferson avenue with her husband, Thomas, when she became confused, according to witnesses, and was struck by Dr. Heyde's car. She was not believed to have been seriously injured at the time, internal injuries developing several days later, resulting in her being taken to the hospital. Dr. Heyde was not arrested, being notified to appear at the inquest.

The deaths of Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Massey, and of Miss Josephine Zimmer, 22 years old, a laundress employed at City Hospital, who died at the hospital Saturday night of injuries suffered May 20, when she fell from the running board of an automobile near Eighteenth street and Lafayette avenue, bring the total number of deaths resulting from motor vehicle accidents since Jan. 1 to 68, against 51 for a similar period last year.

Police are searching for two young men driving a Ford coupe, who seriously injured Arthur Bray, 57, a carpenter, of 5723 Dale avenue, on Peirce avenue near his home at noon yesterday. The men helped Bray to his feet after the accident, according to witnesses, but, finding that he was unable to stand, re-entered their machine and drove away. Bray reported that a purse containing $22 was missing after the accident. Members of his family have offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the men.

PRINCE KISSES SMALL GIRL WEARING 'DADDY'S MEDALS'

Train Is Halted in Veldt Country for Royal Party to Hunt Small Game.

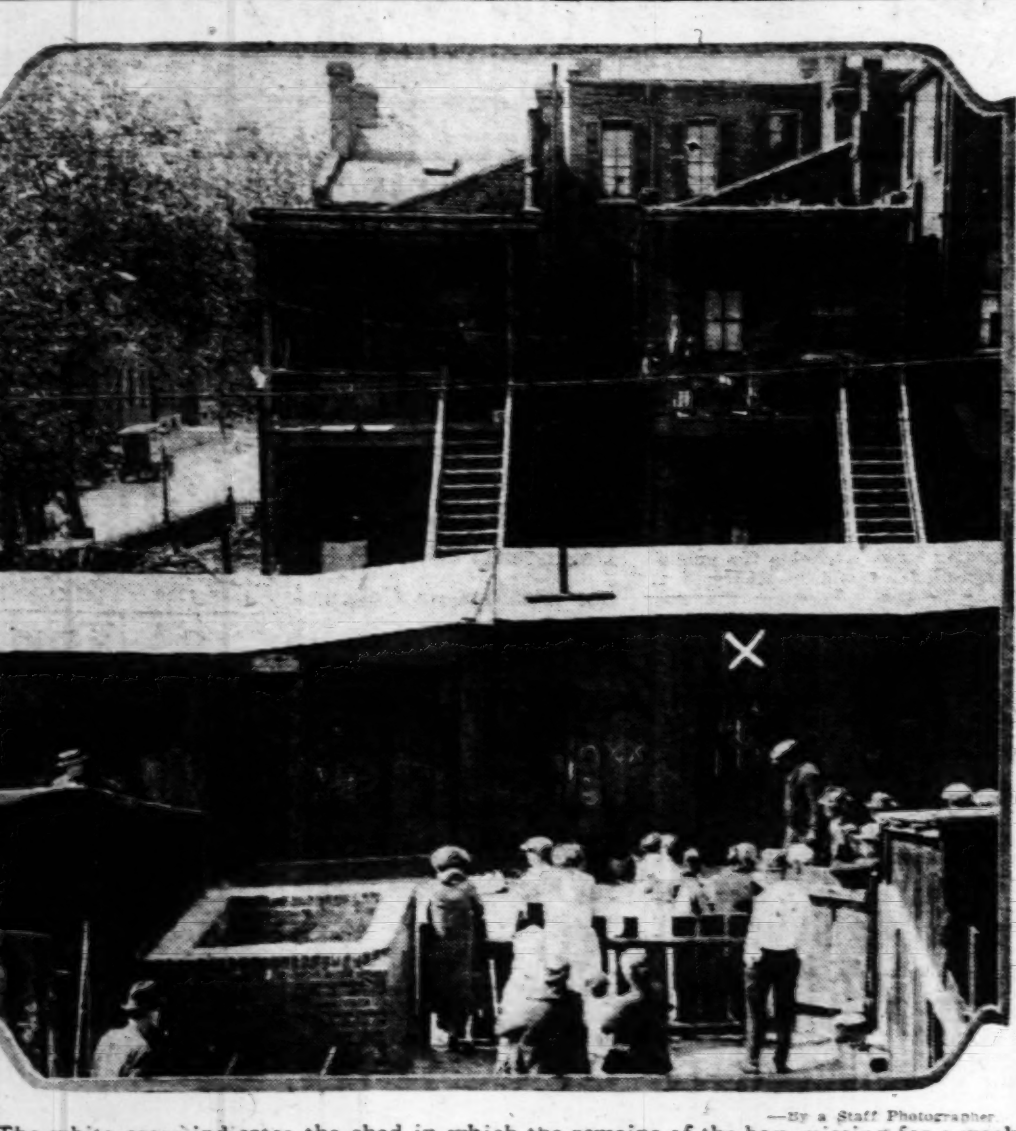

By the Associated Press. SPRINGPONT, South Africa, May 25.—The royal train that is carrying the Prince of Wales and his party through the Orange Free State, stopped in the open veldt country today for the Prince and his staff to enjoy a few hours hunting. The party went after small game and brought back a good bag.

By the Associated Press. CAPETOWN, South Africa, May 25.—Many stories are told of kindly acts by the Prince of Wales during his stay here. Noticing a small girl wearing several medals at a children's parade, the Prince asked her whose decorations they were. "They're daddy's," she said. "Where is daddy?" asked the Prince.

"He was killed in the war," the child answered, whereupon the Prince lifted her in his arms and kissed her.

When Wales' train arrived at Inverary Saturday night, it was found that numerous Europeans, many from long distances, had gathered to get a glimpse of the Prince. He had undressed and was preparing for bed, on learning of the waiting crowd, he donned dressing gown and slippers, and went out and spoke a few words of greeting.

G. H. Williams Named to Senate by Gov. Baker

And Charles M. Hay of St. Louis are expected to be contestants Senator Reed's term continues until 1929.

In connection with a report in political circles that Gov. Baker had in mind resignation from the office of Governor in 1926 to seek the nomination for the United States Senate, and that in that campaign he would have the aid of his appointee to fill the unexpired term of Senator Spencer, Williams said no pledge of any character had been sought from him and that none had been given. He said the appointment was unresisted.

NEW SENATOR BESPEAKS 'GOOD WILL OF PEOPLE OF MY NATIVE STATE'

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS, on learning today of his appointment as United States Senator, issued this statement: "I am very grateful to Gov. Baker for the appointment. It is a great honor and carries great responsibility. I accept it fully realizing both the honor and the responsibility.

"The death of Senator Spencer, which is the occasion for the appointment, is a matter of deep regret.

"I shall do my best to represent the people of my native State in the United States Senate, and I hope the appointment will be a source of pride to the people of Missouri.

On State Committee. Williams, although practicing law in St. Louis since 1897, has never lost his "touch" out in the State, and has been identified with the Republican organization as a member of the Republican State Committee for many years. He is now one of the two members from the Tenth Congressional District.

He has been a personal friend of Gov. Baker for some years, and with the exception of his last visit to St. Louis, it has been the Governor's custom to stay at Williams' home.

The new Senator is a member of the law firm of Bryan, Williams & Cave, with offices in the Pierce Building. He formed this firm after his resignation from the circuit bench in January, 1912. This was shortly before the expiration of his term.

Princeton Graduate. He was born in California, Mo., Dec. 1, 1871, the son of Circuit Judge and Mrs. John M. Williams. He attended elementary and high schools in California and one year of college preparatory work at Drury College, Springfield. He entered Princeton University and graduated in 1894 with an A. B. degree.

He then became an instructor of Latin in the high school at California, meanwhile reading law in the office of his father. One year later he entered the Washington University Law School here and graduated in 1897. Since that time he has practiced here. Of late he has specialized as attorney for banks.

Joe was a son of John Azar, a city sewer department laborer, and his wife, Mary. The family is of Syrian origin. The father has stated to the police and reporters that no threats or ransom demands were received by the family, and he was at a loss to explain the disappearance and murder.

Last Seen By Aunt.

The last time Joe was seen alive by a relative was at 3:30 a. m. last Monday, when his aunt, Mrs. Marina Azar, who resides with the parents, saw him, alone, bouncing a rubber ball on the pavement at Tenth and Hickory streets, a short block north of his home, which is at the northeast corner of Tenth and Morrison.

She related today that she called to Joe from the back porch of the Azar flat. "Come on, Joe, I want you to get me some coffee," he called. "All right," she said, and she returned to the flat. Fifteen minutes later the aunt and the mother noticed that the boy had not come home, and when his absence became more protracted they began looking about the neighborhood for him. Mrs. Marina Azar opened the doors of various sheds, including the one where the body was found today, but found no trace of her nephew in any of them.

Raymond Azar, 14, an adopted son of Mrs. Marina Azar, looked into the shed where the body was found, on Tuesday, and found no trace of his cousin, but he said today that he thought he noticed the pile of tarpaulins there.

A sister of Joe, Rose Azar, saw him talking to two boys on Tenth street, between Hickory street and Morrison avenue, a week ago yesterday, the day before he disappeared. She attached no significance to this fact.

A woman residing at 1063 A Morrison avenue, in the flat above the Hyymers, told policemen that she noticed an odor coming from the vicinity of the shed last Friday, and had been to see if it was coming from a garbage can in the yard.

An autopsy on the body by Dr. Harter, coroner's physician, Dr. Theodore L. Carriere, showed that death had come from strangulation, but that there were no other traces of external violence. The condition of the body made a thorough examination difficult.

Twine Kept as Clew.

The police ordered the twine kept as nearly as possible like it was found, for use as a clew. Capt. Kirk at once began seeking other twine in the Morrison avenue neighborhood, for comparison, and found some, which will be examined closely.

On a piece of paper found today in the Hymer basement was the notation, "Monday morning, 2012 Gravois avenue." This is the address of the T. A. Casper Linoleum Co., Casper said he could offer no explanation of the significance of the note, since he did not know Hymer, unless it related to a newspaper advertisement he had inserted for a chauffeur, with the direction to apply at his store Monday morning. Casper's recollection was that this advertisement was printed a week ago yesterday. Several young men reside at the Hymer house.

When found, the body was clad in the same clothing Joe had worn when he left home last Monday—corduroy coat and gray trousers. Capt. Kirk expressed the opinion that the boy might have been drugged in some other neighborhood, which will be searched Wednesday. Chief of Police Gerke assumed direction of the inquiry.

Identification of the body was made at the morgue by a sister and brother of Joe, Josephine and George, who are in their teens. As

WINTER RETURNS TO RUSSIA

By the Associated Press. LENINGRAD, Russia, May 25.—A sudden wave of winter has swept the regions to the north of Leningrad. With a temperature below zero and deep snow reaching to the shores of the White Sea, the return of winter weather at this period is considered unprecedented in the last century.

In South Russia continuous rains are reported. Rostoff-On-the-Don is flooded and numerous streets, dwellings and factories are under water.

There is a supply of food there cached for Amundsen two years ago.

The insistence of Capt. Godfred Hansen of the Danish Navy, who established the Columbia food depots, that Amundsen has gone on to Cape Columbia has done much to sustain hope here.

The depots are at Fort Conner. Under the most favorable conditions Cape Columbia might be reached in about six weeks.

While no definite announcement by the Government has been made, it is believed that official plans are shaping up rapidly for a rescue expedition. It was reported late last night from Tromsø that an official expedition was forming to leave there in a Government ship Tuesday, but this could not be confirmed. The leading scientists of the Royal University, including Prof. Adolf Hoel, who supplied Amundsen's maps and charts, have been called into consultation and in consultation with Weather Bureau experts, and it is expected that a Government announcement will be forthcoming in a few hours.

Another rumor told of plans for an airplane expedition from Tromsø. This report also lacked confirmation.

Possibly on Way to Cape Columbia. On the other hand, the experience of the Nansen and Sverdrup expeditions, 1892-96, and 1893-1891, indicates that the fine weather never lasts more than four or five days. If they do not return by Tuesday, hope of their flying back will be generally abandoned and the most tenable supposition will be that they are on their way to Cape Columbia. In this event it is improbable that they can communicate with civilization before hood and the body brought back to the shed, but there was a dearth of circumstances to make this appear possible.

Hymer and his wife were taken to the South Street Police Station for questioning. Capt. Kirk said he would have them and four young men, who were taken there also for questioning, at the inquest, soon as the sister saw the boy's outer clothing she exclaimed, "Yes, it's my brother." George insisted on looking at the face, and then cried, "My brother! My poor brother Joe!"

Joe's parents had left home at 8:15 a. m. today to canvass Catholic hospitals in search of their son, for whose recovery they had offered a reward of $50. They were reached at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, after the body was found, and returned home at 10:20 a. m. Mrs. Azar was with her when she got there, Syrian women from the colony residing in the neighborhood sought to console her in their native tongue for some time, while a crowd of curious Syrians and others gathered outside.

The conspiracy charge is a felony, the maximum punishment for which is two years' imprisonment or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Nature of Charges. The charge against Nations, Prather and Griesedick is that they entered into a conspiracy whereby the brewery was to make and sell beer of an unlawful alcoholic content, and that protective was to be extended to this traffic, through tricking and deceiving the officers of the law.

Griesedick, in the confession on which the indictments of the others were based, said that he paid about $15,000, at the rate of $1 a case of beer made and sold, to Prather. The indictment of Nations came several days after Griesedick and Prather were indicted.

TWO BUYERS FLY TO ST. LOUIS FOR SALE

Another demonstration of transportation in business was given yesterday with the arrival of two buyers for the Allen W. Kellogg Dry Goods Co. of Wichita, Kan., who followed the aerial route to St. Louis.

The plane will return to Wichita this afternoon with a special assortment of goods purchased at the Rice-Six sale, which will be featured at a special sale at the Kellogg company tomorrow.

Odor, Fruhauf and Pilot Rowland, of the Swallow Airplane Co. of Wichita, hopped off at the city at 3:30 a. m. yesterday. The party stopped at Richards Hotel, Kansas City, for lunch. The plane from Kansas City to St. Louis was made against a high wind, speed of the plane being reduced to 35 miles an hour during some periods. The arrival at Lambert-St. Louis Field was at 5:30 p. m.

Pilot Rowland will leave for Wichita at 1:30 p. m. today in the plane carrying 400 pounds of goods. The arrival at Lambert-St. Louis Field was at 5:30 p. m.

Rowland has been in the lithographing business in St. Louis for 10 years. A stone bearing the counterfeit impression of the stamps was seized in his shop.

The arrests, ground out of that of Charles E. Doran of St. Louis, who was taken into custody Saturday as he was boarding a vessel at New Orleans for Havana. He told the officers they had been printed in St. Louis and named the man who had hired him to do the work. Names of the men were not given out, however, until after the arrests today.

Rowland admitted receiving $20 from Doran for the use of his stamp, and Enger admitted he was paid $20 for doing the work. The printing was done Sunday, May 18, they said, while no employees were in the shop. Both men are being held and Federal warrants charging counterfeiting will be sought.

Federal agents refused to disclose the source of the information leading to Doran's arrest. He said he was to deliver the stamps to a man in Cuba known to him. He believed they were to be used in labeling bottles so as to give an appearance of genuineness to the so-called "overnight" Cuban whisky being brought into this country by running ships.

Thames Gives Up Body.

GWYNETH ERICA MORGAN.

BODY OF DAUGHTER OF BRITISH LORD FOUND

Gwyneth Erica Morgan Disappeared in December When Recovering From Illness.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 25.—The body of a young woman found in the River Thames near Wapping today was identified by relatives as that of the Hon. Gwyneth Erica Morgan, daughter of Lord Tredgar. She disappeared about the middle of last December.

There has been no explanation of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Morgan. She had been recovering from an attack of typhoid fever when she disappeared from her home. The opinion was expressed at the time that the illness had caused depression.

Lord Tredgar, who has a distinguished military career, and is well known as a sportsman, offered a large reward for the discovery of his daughter's whereabouts.

Miss Morgan, who was under medical supervision at the time, slipped from the house during a storm on the morning of Dec. 11. She was only 21 years old and was dressed in a simple dress.

Her father, Lord Tredgar, who was born in Limerick, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents at an early age, she had been a resident of St. Louis virtually all of her life. Besides her brother, she is survived by three sons, Festus J., Thomas and Joseph M. Shaughnessy, and three daughters, Misses Bertha and Margaret Shaughnessy, who resided with her, and Mrs. Joseph Krebs.

Funeral services will be held from an undertaking chapel at 3846 Lindell boulevard, to St. Joseph's Church, Goodfellow and Maple avenues, at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow, and burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

AUTO CASE AGAINST TAYLOR IS DROPPED

Insurance Company to Pay Damages to Car Struck by Judge.

"It's a closed incident."

That is how former Circuit Judge Daniel G. Taylor today characterized a set of circumstances which lodged him in a cell at the Lincoln Avenue Police Station for 10 hours Saturday as a result of his refusal to sign his own bond on a charge of careless driving.

It was announced yesterday that the charge brought by Leo Von Cloedt, of 3140 Lindell boulevard, would be dropped. It grew out of an accident in which an automobile driven by Judge Taylor had collided with the Von Cloedt machine parked in front of the Lindell boulevard address at 2 a. m. Saturday.

Von Cloedt declared Judge Taylor refused to agree to pay damages and appealed to the police. Judge Taylor was arrested at his home at 6 a. m. Saturday and when he refused to sign his bond was lodged in a cell. He was finally persuaded to sign the bond and was released at 4 p. m. The charge was dropped after it had been announced an insurance company would settle with Von Cloedt.

"I have no further comment to make on the case," Judge Taylor said today. "It's a closed incident. But I have had no reason to change the opinion I expressed Saturday."

From his cell Judge Taylor declared Saturday that it was unjust and illegal to arrest him in what he declared was a case purely of a civil claim.

"My arrest," Judge Taylor declared Saturday, "was based upon the false proposition that a man, right by his mere word, to bring about the arrest and incarceration of another man for refusing to accept civil liability."

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR MRS. MARY SHAUGHNESSY

Widow of Late Martin Shaughnessy and Sister of Festus J. Wade Succumbs to Infirmities of Age.

Mrs. Mary J. Shaughnessy, widow of Martin Shaughnessy and sister of Festus J. Wade, died at St. Mary's Hospital at 2 p. m. yesterday of the complication of age. She was 72 years old and for some time had been in an enfeebled condition. She resided at 5928 Maple avenue.

Mrs. Shaughnessy was born in Limerick, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents at an early age. She had been a resident of St. Louis virtually all of her life. Besides her brother, she is survived by three sons, Festus J., Thomas and Joseph M. Shaughnessy, and three daughters, Misses Bertha and Margaret Shaughnessy, who resided with her, and Mrs. Joseph Krebs.

Funeral services will be held from an undertaking chapel at 3846 Lindell boulevard, to St. Joseph's Church, Goodfellow and Maple avenues, at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow, and burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 25.—The Supreme Court today decided that Charles Sherwin and Harry M. Schwartz, operating the "General Lee Development interests" at Fort Worth, Tex., had not earned immunity from prosecution in an oil fraud case by furnishing information to the Federal Trade Commission.

COUNTRY HOME OF LATE W. J. LEMP SOLD

Residence and 192-Acre Tract Bid in at Auction by Chicagoan for $118,500.

"Alas!" the country home of the late William J. Lemp, with its 192-acre grounds on Kennerly road near Gravois road, was sold at auction today at Clayton to Frank A. Noonan, a Chicago real estate dealer, for $118,500.

The sale was under a Court order obtained by Clarence Wolff, attorney for the heirs, Mrs. Ellie Lemp, the widow, and William J. Lemp Jr., to simplify clearing up the $100,000 estate. Lemp, who was president of the William J. Lemp Brewery Co., killed himself in 1922.

The country house, a three-story structure in a highly ornamental Swiss chalet style, overlooks the Alexander River from bluffs 200 feet high. It was built in 1914 at a cost of $125,000. Draperies, fixtures, rugs and statuary went with it in today's sale. The interiors are rich in decorative woods and each of the two lower floors includes several fireplaces.

LETTER SIGNED WITH NAME OF SHEPHERD WITNESS RECEIVED

"Robert White" Says He Is in Philadelphia and Will Return "If Given Protection."

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 25.—Reports that Robert White, missing State witness in the William Dering Shepherd murder trial, was in Philadelphia and intended to return to Chicago "if given protection," created interest here as defense and prosecution prepared to continue the drawn out task of selecting a jury.

An apparently authentic word of White's whereabouts came to the Herald and Examiner in a special delivery letter from Philadelphia, the signature of which was declared to be identical with that affixed by White to an application for the rental of an automobile in which he and his family departed.

White, who has been reported seen in Florida and elsewhere in last week, was considered one of the State's chief witnesses.

The writer of the letter denied that he had said $25,000 was offered to him to leave Chicago, but declared he was compelled to leave "to save my life and family."

The letter purporting to be from White was made public today by Assistant State Attorney Joseph Savage. The writer declared he was "just commencing to fight Shepherd and his gang" and would come back. The letter was postmarked Philadelphia and the signature was similar to White's except for the letter "W."

"Shepherd is guilty. I must admit," said the letter, "and he knows I know it, and God help him when I get back. His bunch made a nervous wreck of me and also made me write a statement against my will. I am just commencing to fight Shepherd and his gang."

HINDENBURG ATTENDS RACES

By the Associated Press. HANOVER, Germany, May 25.—To the accompaniment of tumultuous cheers, President von Hindenburg arrived at the race meeting yesterday afternoon in an open automobile and wearing his First Marshal's uniform. The President's entry was marked by a violent thunderstorm.

After distributing prizes, President von Hindenburg left at 4 o'clock to the accompaniment of "Deutschland über Alles" and deafening cheers. It is generally commented that his expected meeting with former Crown Prince Frederick William did not take place. It is reported against the former Prince that on Hanover Friday evening, thus not waiting for the arrival of the President, and rumor has it that the motive for his departure was fear that his remaining might lead to demonstrations.

SALOON KEEPER BEATEN TO 'TRAP' IN LIQUOR RAID

Device for Destroying the "Evidence" Found at Bar Operated by Michael Walsh.

Twenty-one persons were arrested in raids on 13 saloons in the 24 hours preceding 6 a. m. today. In most of these places home brew or moonshine whisky in varying quantities were found and confiscated.

At the saloon of Michael Vogel, 3101 South Jefferson avenue, the police found two pints of beer on ice when they visited the place yesterday and continued the search in Vogel's living quarters upstairs. There they found 171 pints of home-made beer, seven gallons of whisky and 17 pint bottles of whisky which were labeled "Glencoe, Bottled in Bond." Vogel was arrested.

Device for Breaking "Evidence." An anonymous letter signed "Wife" and relating that the writer's husband had been obtaining whisky at the saloon of Michael Walsh, 4054 Maple avenue, led to a raid on the place yesterday by Detective Sergeant Coakley and a squad of policemen. As the officers entered Walsh attempted to pull a rope leading from a closet but was seized and the rope traced to its source. In the closet the officers found it attached to a trigger on a trap door and on the trap door sat a quart of whisky and a half gallon of wine. The device was arranged so that by pulling the rope the glass containers of the liquor would be dropped on a pile of rocks in the basement. The liquor was confiscated and Walsh locked up.

A small brewery with a large quantity of home brew was discovered when several police officers searched the saloon of William J. Becker, 2727 Gravois avenue, at 3 p. m. Upon their entry, they found a glass of beer on the bar and arrested William Berneiman, the bartender, forcing him to open a locker in the rear of the room. There they found 292 bottles of beer and a gallon of whisky. Continuing the search upstairs, they found 18 gallons of home brew in two 25-gallon crocks and 633 empty pint bottles. While the search was in progress, the proprietor arrived and was arrested.

A little earlier in the evening, John Merklin, proprietor of a saloon at 1529 Menard street, and a customer in the place were arrested when the police entered and searched the place. A glass, which apparently had contained whisky, was found on the bar. Under the bar they found a pint bottle of whisky.

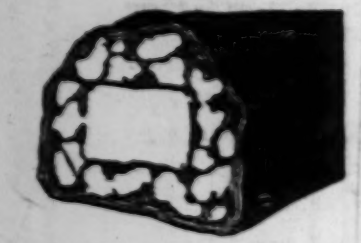

Had Liquor Stock in Pocket. At 4:45 p. m., Sylvester Frank, proprietor of a saloon at the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Euclid avenue, was arrested when officers entered the place and found a pint bottle of whisky in his pocket. He was charged with possession of liquor and also with vagrancy.

MAN HELD IN CHICAGO IS NOT VANDEVENTER TRUST ROBBER

The man arrested in Chicago on charges of passing bad checks was on the Vandeventer Trust Co. of St. Louis is not Leo M. Harrison, who sold his step-brother, Harry B. Givens, secretary of the Vandeventer Trust Co., the evening of Feb. 7 last and took $18,000 cash and $12,000 securities from the bank. Givens yesterday viewed the prisoner, who is held under the name of John Kelsey. Givens said today that, although Kelsey proved not to be Harrison, the Chicago authorities appeared to have a good case against Kelsey, and that he would aid in the prosecution. Kelsey lived at the Coronado Hotel in St. Louis recently and worked for a few days here as a soap salesman.

It was announced today Kelsey will be taken to Grand Rapids, Mich., to answer charges of using worthless checks.

There are fourteen well-known manufacturers licensed to make Neutrodyne Receivers. The overwhelming proof of Freed-Eisemann supremacy is the fact that in the year 1934 the sales of the Freed-Eisemann Company alone were more than half the combined total of the other thirteen manufacturers put together.

Freed-Eisemann NR6
—at $150 and the NR-20 at $175 are also shown and are regular features of the Famous-Barr Co. stock.

These Are Outstanding Features of Freed-Eisemann Neutrodyne:

- 1—No visible unsightly wires or loops.
- 2—Whistles and squeaks completely eliminated.
- 3—Utter simplicity of operation. Stations always come in at the same dial settings.
- 4—Extreme selectivity.
- 5—Custom built by trained experts—not mere assemblers.
- 6—Subjected to seventeen separate factory tests before being pronounced perfect.
- 7—Backed by organization of great strength and dependability.
- 8—Selected by Navy for the President's yacht.

EBELING, MAIL TRAIN ROBBER, QUITS PRISON

St. Louisan, Given 15 Years in 1910, Leaves to Work for Former Millionaire Convict.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 23.—George Ebeling, St. Louisan, who was sentenced to 15 years in the Federal penitentiary here for the robbery of a mail train at Glenwood, Mo., in January, 1910, was freed yesterday and observed that he had "paid for his little adventure in full."

"I don't owe them a thing in there," he said, indicating the warden's office with a nod of his head. "I served every day of my sentence and was a model prisoner with the exception of my three-day escape six months after I came here. I am going to be a model laboring man from now on."

Ebeling left immediately for St. Paul, as nine other recently released ex-convicts have done, to accept employment in the printing plant of Herbert Bigelow, millionaire, who was released from Leavenworth, April 9, after serving a sentence for violation of the income tax laws. Ebeling met Bigelow in prison.

SON OF JAPANESE RULER WILL STUDY ABROAD FOR 2 YEARS
Prince Chichibu Sails for England; Plans to Travel on Continent and May Visit U. S.

TOKIO, May 23.—Prince Chichibu, second son of the Emperor of Japan, left for England yesterday aboard the warship Izumo for a two years' study abroad. He will leave the warship at Hongkong, whence he will travel by liner.

The visit of Prince Chichibu to Europe is the first case of a son of the Japanese Emperor being educated in the Occident.

The Prince will spend most of his two years in England, where he will live incognito as Marquis Chichibu. It is expected he will live with one of the families of the British nobility while studying in England.

He also will travel on the continent, and it is believed that he will return to Japan by way of the United States.

Prince Chichibu is 22 years old.

EDUCATORS AT SCOUT CAMP
After two days of Boy Scout life in the out-of-doors, 175 teachers of the St. Louis public high schools returned to the city yesterday from Camp Irondale, the Scout encampment near Ironton, Mo., where they attended a conference under the leadership of H. O. Wyland, director of education, National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The conference was for the purpose of familiarizing the teachers with the work of the scout movement and to give them a practical demonstration of the outdoor activities of the organization.

Wyland, who has visited high schools in most of the important cities of the country, praised the teachers as a class, declaring he believed that 95 per cent. of the nation's high school students "go straight" and that this is largely due to the helpful influence of the teachers.

NAMED TUBERCULOSIS HEAD
Dr. H. L. Spector Is Named to Succeed Dr. J. F. Brodeck.

Notice of the appointment of Dr. H. L. Spector, Tuberculosis Comptroller, to succeed Dr. J. F. Brodeck, was sent to the Efficiency Board today by Hospital Commissioner Jordan.

Dr. Brodeck resigned recently, after having held the office since it was created about five years ago. Dr. Spector, whose new salary will be $2600 a year, is succeeded as Superintendent of Koch Hospital by Dr. J. J. Singer, formerly chief tuberculosis physician at the hospital, who in turn is succeeded by Dr. R. Schwartz, resident physician. The superintendent's salary $275 a month, the chief physician's is $210 a month and the resident physician's is $175.

Grain of Corn Enamors Life.
TAMPA, Fla., May 23.—Jackie Coleman, 6 years old, of Duane City, Wis. today is being rushed to the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, in an effort to save his life. Surgeons who, since Saturday have been trying to remove a grain of corn lodged in the boy's throat, agreed last night that the only chance to save him would be to rush him to a Philadelphia specialist.

17,950 Fine Shirts in One Vast Sale!

The "Leviathan" of the Shirt World

This Shirt sale is in a class by itself. No other sale held in the entire United States offers so many fine Shirts at such a low price. A sale that has no rival.

Several well-known Shirt-makers contributed their sample stocks to this sale to make it the biggest Shirt sale we have ever held. Be sure to be here early Tuesday.

Your Unrestricted Choice of 17,950 High-Grade Shirts—Silks, Fiber, Silk-Mixed, Broadcloth, Pongee, "Kingsatin," Etc.

In Our Annual Decoration Day

SHIRT SALE

Shirtmakers — the best ones — all know of this sale and help us to "put it over" in a greater way each year. It seems almost inconceivable that we can offer 17,950 Shirts that are wonderful values, but such is the case; that's why men come in thousands to this sale. That's why it stands at the very top of all Shirt sales. Collar attached, collar to match and neckband styles.

To buy these fine Shirts at $1.65 is like buying coal for $5 a ton, sugar at 2c a pound and bread for 5c a loaf, or a $100 government bond for $50. There are Shirts in this Sale worth four times the sale price and the lowest priced Shirt is worth more than the sale price. A blind man could buy these Shirts with perfect safety.

Imagine Buying--

- 240 Pure Silk Shirts
- 240 Silk Filled Shirts
- 400 "Kingsatin" Shirts
- 180 Fiber Shirts
- 1800 "Topsylk" Mercerized Cotton Shirts
- 180 Java Crepe Shirts
- 600 Flannel Fancy Cotton Shirts
- 632 Imported Swiss Poplins
- 2160 Fancy English Broadcloths
- 2000 Plain English Broadcloths
- 650 Domestic Broadcloths

Every Shirt Perfect

No "Seconds." No damaged Shirts. No skipped or thrown together Shirts made for a sale. These are GOOD Shirts, through and through, from makers who stand high in the Shirt world.

Imagine Buying--

- 1200 Fiber Striped Madras Shirts
- 340 Satin Striped Cotton Jerseys
- 400 Fiber Striped Oxfords
- 600 Fiber Basket Weaves
- 890 End-to-End Jacquards
- 990 Lustrous Sateen Shirts
- 400 Hemstitched Broadcloths
- 1200 Imported Radium Finish
- 2848 Madras and Other Shirts

None Sold to Dealers

To prevent dealers buying up these Shirts we are obliged to place a limit of three Shirts to a customer on the silk and fiber Shirts.

90 Per Cent of These Shirts Never Out of Original Boxes

Our preparations are made for the biggest "Shirt day" in our history. If we don't get it, it will be because St. Louis men don't need Shirts. Such a sale is not possible without giving such Shirt values as we have never before—that's going some.

5000 Square Feet of Selling Space

We have taken over the entire men's furnishings department and have provided exceptional service.

Shifting the Responsibility

WHICH kind of a man are you? Didn't you ever leave home in the morning and have your conscience twinge over the responsibility placed upon your wife or mother to keep the house warm and comfortable? Fixing the furnace is not a woman's kind of work.

HART HEAT

will take over the task without the slightest annoyance to any member of the family. Shift that responsibility from those who should not bear it, to the marvelous, ever dependable Hart Oil Burner. Then when you leave in the morning you will know your home is going to be even more comfortably heated than if you were there.

The Hart Oil Burner employs the same principle of oil for fuel as is used by the navy in battleships. HART HEAT is adaptable to your present type of heating plant, whether it is warm air, hot water, vapor or steam. A phone call will bring a representative to explain and estimate.

SAFETY!

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has a well-earned reputation for safeguarding its patrons and the public; at the same time developing and maintaining a degree of safety in transportation which permits of unexcelled freight and passenger schedules.

Many L & N trains could run faster, considerable running time could be eliminated—but the element of safety has always been one of extraordinary concern to the Management, with the result that its list of fatalities and accidents has been very much below the average of American railroads.

In order to get further speed and also greater safety, this Railroad is installing electrically controlled automatic block signals. The signals protect against collision, open switches, broken rails, etc., and at the same time permit running trains closer together than is possible with the time spacing system, thus increasing track capacity with resultant saving of time.

The installation of these automatic block signals costs approximately $3,500 per mile. When completed, the automatic block signal system of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will represent an investment of many millions of dollars.

Such expenditures demonstrate the truth of the statement that "it takes a lot of money to run a railroad", and that, at present rate of earnings, railroad rates are not too high.

HOME OF KLAN FOE WRECKED
BY EXPLOSION

Fire, Following Blast, Virtually Destroys East St. Louis Residence of Art Newman.

FAMILY AWAY FROM HOUSE AT THE TIME

Hotel Owner Now at Liberty on Bond on Charge of Killing Man in Saloon Recently.

The East St. Louis home of Art Newman, Klan antagonist in the recent Williamson County Klan war, was wrecked by an explosion at 2 a. m. today. Newman, his wife and his three children were away from the house at the time and no one was injured.

The house is a two-story, eight-room structure at 177 North Park drive. The force of the blast ripped the front from the building and heaved it to the street. Fire which followed virtually destroyed the house, valued at $800.

Investigation Made. Newman told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he would ordinarily have been at home at the time the blast occurred. As it happened, however, he and his wife were at the Arlington Hotel, Second and Missouri avenues, of which he is proprietor, and their three children were with relatives.

Deputy State Fire Marshal August Grunz said today that he had uncovered facts which he would present to the grand jury. He said he believed that the men who set off the charges in the Newman home were the men who fired a resort operated by James Byrnes in Madison.

Newman, who was once charged with an assault on the late Klan ruler, S. G. Young and his wife, is now under a charge of murder in connection with the killing of C. E. Gordon in a saloon operated by Carl and Earl Shelton, associates of Newman and anti-Klanism in the Williamson County fight. Newman was released on bond two weeks ago.

Enmity Against Newman. Whether the enmity shown against Newman grows out of the Klan fight or out of his association with persons who have no part in the fight is not generally known. David Walsh, manager of the Arlington Hotel, today told a Post-Dispatch reporter of a visit to the hotel by four men apparently intent on killing Newman.

He related that several days ago four men came to the hotel and three entered. They thrust automatics against Walsh's chest and called him Newman. When he explained that he was not Newman one of them said:

"Well, we want Newman's hide and we'll get it." They departed without any attempt at robbery.

BOY, 10, SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FALL WHILE SEEKING KITE

Robert Twitty Falls Three Floors From Roof of Manufacturing Plant.

There was one thought uppermost in the mind of 10-year-old Robert Twitty when his kite landed on a four-story building at 1630 Park avenue at 8 a. m. yesterday and that was to get his kite down. With a platoon he climbed the fire escape to the roof of the building, owned by the Peters Manufacturing Co.

A few minutes later he fell from the building to a roof three floors below. John Gaud, of Collinsville, who was with Robert, called the boy's father, William Twitty, from his home at 1215A Dolman street. Twitty took his son to city hospital, where it was said he had suffered fracture of the skull, left arm, left leg and pelvis, as well as internal injuries.

U. R. CLAIM AGENT HELD ON FEDERAL INDICTMENT

Frank O'Shea Disclaims Knowledge of Charge Made at Buffalo.

Police, assisting agents of the Department of Justice, last night arrested Frank J. O'Shea, a claim agent for the United Railways, at his home, 5117 Delmar boulevard, upon a Federal indictment returned in Buffalo, N. Y.

A copy of the indictment had not arrived here this morning. O'Shea himself said he did not know the charge against him. When the street car strike, which is still going on in Buffalo, he was called in 1922, he was vice president of the International Union of Carmen.

FRENCH FACE REDOUBTABLE FOE IN RIFFS IN MOROCCO

With Army of 60,000 Including 40,000 Moslems, They Are Opposed by 20,000 Skilled Riflemen.

REBEL CHIEF'S DREAM OF EMPIRE

After Defeating Spain, He Planned for Year to Attack French, but Was Unable to Capture Fez.

By PAUL SCOTT MOWER.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
FRENCH HEADQUARTERS IN MOROCCO, via Paris, May 25.—The war began against the French protectorate in Morocco by Abd-el-Krim, conquering Sultan of the Rif, is assuming larger proportions.

Along a front of more than 60 miles, in a difficult, mountainous country, two powerful armies now are locked in combat. This is no ordinary colonial campaign, whose outcome is assured in advance by the obvious superiority of civilized over uncivilized forces. The Rifians have 20,000 skilled riflemen in the field, armed with modern weapons and plentifully supplied with ammunition.

Among the frontier tribes they have numerous partisans whom they have fanatical and equipped. They have other effective reserves. They understand the use of the machine gun and the art of entrenchment. Four years of successful warfare against Spain has perfected their tactics and equipped their morale. Never in the history of colonial warfare has there existed so redoubtable a native foe. The French front, tardily reinforced, is held by thousands of combatants, most of whom, though offered by Frenchmen, are Algerians, Moroccans and Senegalese. These French with their airplanes, cavalry and cannon, are at an advantage in the foothills and the wider valleys, but the Rifians, with their superior mobility, are at an advantage in the mountains. The French, it must be further remembered, have the unenviable task of operating with Moslems against Moslems in a Moslem land.

Stakes Tremendous.
The stakes in the struggle are tremendous. Abd-el-Krim's avowed objective is Fez, the capital and Holy City of Morocco, the besieging of which by the abridgment of the French will become the signal for a general uprising of Moroccan tribes. He has the sympathy of all disaffected Moslems from Dakar to Calcutta and the active support of the world-conspiratorial Third Internationale directed by Moscow.

"It isn't so much Abd-el-Krim who is dangerous," Marshal Foch remarked recently, "as what he has behind him." "All writers," he added, "are beginning to repeat the victories over Spain would rejoice the communists everywhere and would stir the Moslems of the world to the depths. The writer does not believe Abd-el-Krim can achieve such a victory. It is the writer's belief that his most dangerous blow has been parried and that the worst danger already is past."

By a remarkable combination of military skill and sheer heroism, Fez has been saved. Indeed, the French ought soon to be in a position to choose whether they will continue the purely defensive attitude which heretofore has been imposed on them by circumstances. The fact remains that the military issue is complicated by psychological and political considerations.

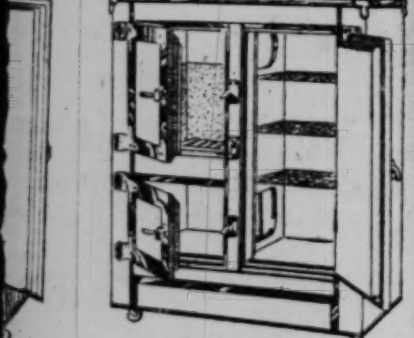

Abd-el-Krim Ambitions.
So far the outside world has had scarcely more than an inkling of the dramatic events which during the last 30 days have been filled with the roar of guns.

Having viewed the situation first from the Rifian side and then from the French; having conversed at length with Abd-el-Krim last October, and having now been admitted to the confidence of the French high command, the writer is in a position to attempt what perhaps is the first full relation of this astounding chapter of contemporary history. He must add, however, that all statements contained in this relation are made solely upon the writer's responsibility.

The astonishing thing is not, of course, that the French should be defending themselves, but that Abd-el-Krim should have dared to attack them. Who is this North-African native that he should venture a trial at arms with one of the world's greatest military

NUNS WHO FOUNDED NOTED EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS CANONIZED AT ST. PETER'S

St. Madeleine Barat Organized Order of Sacred Heart, While St. Mary Postel Launched School for Girls.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Publications Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.) ROME, May 25.—The double canonization of Madeleine Sophie Barat and Mary Madeleine Postel yesterday was the most important of the Holy Year, because both saints founded immense educational establishments which flourish in all parts of the world.

Madeline Sophie Barat founded the order of the Sacred Heart in Amiens, France, when the country was suffering from the effects of the French revolution, while Mary Madeleine Postel, in the midst of a singular revolutionary spirit, started a modest school home for girls at Saint Saviour Leconote.
Tested more than 2000 pilgrims, former pupils of the Heart institutions from America, England, Belgium and other European states, Australia, Egypt and India gathered at St. Peter's to witness the canonization of the school founders.

St. Mary Postel's once modest struggling house today counts 1500 religious and houses devoted to the interests of the poorest children.
St. Madeleine Barat's institution gives Catholic training to girls whose parents are better off than St. Mary Postel's. "Sisters of Mercy," according to St. Mary Postel's rule, must each save at least 1000 souls during their life work.
150,000 pilgrims at ceremony.
The ceremony in St. Peter's was performed in the presence of the Pope, the Cardinals, the prelates of the Roman curia and more than 150,000 pilgrims inside and outside of the great basilica.

The ceremonial was the same as that observed last Sunday for St.
Theresa of the Child Jesus, whose holiness said a mass; then the traditional double "No" to a request to receive Sisters Barat and Postel into the calendar of saints, followed by a "Yes."
The postulates, with the Cardinals, offered the Pope a golden crosier and bread, with relics for the new saint, and pictures of the two.
Sister Barat's relics were her gold ring, increased in a reliquary and an exact copy of the virgin in the Milan Cathedral. Sister Postel's relic was a part of the altar cloth.
Sister Barat's picture offered to his holiness depicts her adoration. Sister Postel's picture depicts her indicating Sister Placida as her successor as Mother Superior of her order. The standard carried in the procession during the ceremonial shows Sister Barat among the poor of Rome. It was carried by her "collateral descendants"—Dr.
Hollish, whose wife was born Barat, and Commande Berling, both from Paris, and priests Pernot and Dorey.

Sister Barat's Two Miracles.
Inside the basilica were the same magnificent lighting and decorations as for St. Theresa, but the outside of the basilica was not illuminated last evening.
Sisters Barat and Barat devoted their whole lives to the education and well-being of girls and young children. Sister Postel was born in Barfleur, Normandy, of poor parents 69 years ago. Sister Barat was born in Joligny, Burgundy, while the town was being destroyed by fire 148 years ago.
The Papal Osservatore Romano gives Sister Barat's two miracles which admitted her to canonization. The first was the healing of the American Sacred Heart Sister Rosa Coyne of Albany, N. Y., who, through the intercession of Sister Rosalia Hill to the no. 1 sainted founder of the order, was cured of a lung disease which physicians had given up as hopeless.

One of Miracles Attributed to Sister
Barat Performed in St. Louis.
Observance in St. Louis of the canonization in Rome of Mme.
Barat, founder of the Sacred Heart order, was given additional significance and interest by the fact that the miracle attributed to her, which contributed to her beatification, preceding her canonization, was performed in St.
Louis.
As told on May 3 in the True
Life Section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch, the cure of Nancy Rakewell, 58 years old, was attributed to the intercession of Mme. Barat.
Mrs. O. M. Munroe of De Soto, Mo., who was Nancy Rakewell, journeyed to Rome for the beatification in May, 1908, but did not go to the canonization.
There are two Sacred Heart institutions in St. Louis, Maryville Convent at Maryville and Nebraska avenue, and the Domi-Pensionnat at Taylor and Maryland avenues.
Superiors of the schools and numerous students and alumnae attended the canonization.

Prestige Negligible.
The prestige accruing to a member of the City Boxing Commission is negligible, since no professional matches have been held in the city for some time and there is no salary attached to the office. But Bender regards the Mayor's attempt as a slap at the City Commission, and the Mayor's action indicates he believes it offers an opportunity for him to demonstrate his strength with the Board of Aldermen to the exclusion of the City Commission.

It is no secret that the Mayor believes the board's acceptance of the amendment to the charter of 21 to 7, which contained several of his personal suggestions, indicates a favorable attitude toward him. His idea is that the Board of Aldermen represents a more direct line from the Mayor to the people than the City Commission.
This violates the order of the past, when committeemen, for the most part, have virtually selected their Aldermen.
The office involved is negligible, but it assumes importance in the light of the struggle between the committee to retain its power and the Mayor to break it.

MILLER-BENDER ROW DEVELOPS INTO TEST

Mayor and City Committee Measuring Strength on Boxing Board Situation.

Mayor Miller's attempt to remove A. Samuel Bender, fifth ward Republican City Committeeman, has developed into a test of strength between the Mayor and the committee in the Board of Aldermen as a result of the Mayor's action today in certifying to the board the name of Howard V.
Stephens as a successor to Bender on the commission.

Bender, who was appointed Feb.
9 last by former Mayor Kiel to fill out an unexpired term ending Jan.
5, 1926, asserts that he will remain until the close of his term and is defying the Mayor to remove him.
Ignoring the Committee.
As is known, Mayor Miller is ignoring the City Committee and is attempting to cultivate the Board of Aldermen with a view to their becoming the powerful influence in the 28 wards instead of the committeemen. This action undoubtedly looks toward the time when Mayor Miller can install members of the committee suitable to him.

Bender has been talking about a recall movement against Miller on the ground that Miller and Director of Public Safety Bender have violated the city charter in "requesting" wholesale resignations from city employees in the classified service. The Mayor further incensed the City Committee by asserting that the committee had reported to his headquarters that "at least six" committeemen accepted "money or promises" from Democrats in the last campaign. Bender has demanded in an open letter that Mayor Miller name the six he has in mind. The Mayor's answer was to advise Bender that he had removed him from the City Boxing Commission.

The prestige accruing to a member of the City Boxing Commission
is negligible, since no professional
matches have been held in the city for some time and there is no

JEW, CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT SPEAK

Clergymen Discuss Church and City at Opening of Community Conference.

Jewish, Catholic and Protestant clergymen met on the same program at the opening of the St.
Louis Community Conference at Hotel Statler yesterday afternoon to discuss a common subject—
"The Church and the Community."
They were Rabbi Leon Harrison of Temple Israel, the Alphonse M.
Schwittalla, S. J., regent of the St.
Louis University School of Medicine, and the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church. A fourth speaker was George B. Mansford, Ph. D., social science director of the St. Louis Church Federation.

The Community Conference,
sponsored by the St. Louis Community Council, was opened by Hospital Commissioner G. A. Jordan, acting for Mayor Miller. The conference will continue through today and tomorrow, closing with a session tomorrow evening.

Explains Philanthropy.
Rabbi Harrison explained the growth of philanthropy in Jewish communities, tracing it to two deep convictions taught to the Jew, he said, by the faith of his fathers.
The first conviction was first, that the community rests the direct responsibility for the disabled and the needy, and second, that community service to the needy and disabled is a vital element in religion.
"Now I take it," said Rabbi Harrison, "that these two convictions are needed by this community and every community. To awaken this spirit in its full strength will be the highest and finest task of the Community Council among both the rich and poor of this city."
"Let me say that they must realize that this is the vital nerve of their religion, of all religion.
The Jew is awakened to the fact that spirituality is expressed in symphony and piety in philanthropy.
They will feel in their hearts that it is a blasphemy to worship God without work for His children without distinction of race, creed or condition."

Dr. Schwittalla's Talk.
In an address devoted to showing the relation of the church to the community, Dr. Schwittalla declared that the church should be based more upon the fundamental concepts of right and wrong and upon the sanction of conscience than upon escape from penal laws.
"The church of the streets, police protection and public defenders," he said, "are all indications of most desirable progress in the community, but all of these things, if they stop at externals and do not reach into the souls of men, may have hypocrisies of all."
"In fact, there are objective and dispassionate thinkers who are even now looking forward with alarm to the possible consequences of dragging people into righteousness, of making good conduct a matter of police regulation and of exerting legal force for social betterment. It is here, precisely, that the church must supplement the work of the community in its self-reform."

"If the community supplies that policy, the church surely it is the work of the churches to make such supervision and protection more and more unnecessary by reaching into the souls of men."
The church must fill every man, woman and child with the motive of service in life, Dr. Holt declared.
"It is the function of the church to spread ideals," he said. "Every man must serve his fellow man.
There can not be a better community until there are better individuals."

AMERICANS DESIGN ROTOR
SHIP WITH ONLY ONE TOWER Invention of Two Members of Massachusetts Technology Institute to Be Tested on Water Soon.
By the Associated Press.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 25.—A rotor ship, propelled by a new type of revolving tower, has been designed by two members of the School of Naval Architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and will be tested on the Charles River within two weeks, it was announced today.
The ship differs from that invented by Anton Flettner of Germany, in that the rotor tower is smaller in proportion and revolves at a greater speed. Only one tower will be used on the ship which is 32 feet long. The designers, Lieut.
W. M. Hastings and J. M. Korman, hope their craft will attain a speed of seven knots in a 15-mile wind, with the tower making 350 revolutions a minute.
The American-designed ship differs from Flettner's in that the disc on the top of the tower is stationary instead of revolving. The power of propulsion is not obtained through propellers connected with the tower, but from the force set up by pressure of air currents activating the revolving mast, which is turned by a small motor at the base.
The tower is three and one-half feet in diameter and nine and one-half feet high, as compared with Flet-tner's two rotors, 16 feet in diameter and 22 feet high on a ship of 600 tons.

INDICTMENT IN EVOLUTION CASE; JUDGE QUOTES BIBLE IN CHARGE TO JURY

Tennessee Teacher to Go to Trial at Dytton, Tenn., July 10—Session of Court Opened With Prayer.

By the Associated Press.
DAYTON, Tenn., May 25.—John T. Scopes, High School science teacher, was indicted by a Rhea County grand jury here today on a charge of teaching evolution in a public school in violation of the Tennessee law.
The Judge set July 10 at Dayton for trial of the case.
The grand jury was assembled in special session to pass on the case presented to it as a result of a preliminary hearing two weeks ago when three Justices of the Peace held Scopes for grand jury action.

Judge J. D. Raulston in charging the grand jury said that he considered a violation of the Tennessee statute against teaching the theory of evolution in public schools as a high misdemeanor.
"The statute involved in this investigation provides that a violation constitutes only a misdemeanor," the Judge said, "but there are degrees of crime not by expressed provision of statutes, but in reality involved in misdemeanors as well as in felonies, and in the very nature of things I would regard a violation of this statute as a high misdemeanor. And in so declaring I make no reference to the policy or constitutionality of the statute, but to the evil example of the teacher disregarding constituted authority in the presence of those whose thought and morals he is to direct and guide. To teach successfully we must teach both by precept and example."

Detailing something of the history of the Scopes case, the Judge said that he had called the grand jury together at the request of citizens for an immediate inquiry.
The Judge turned to the Bible for some of his charges.
He read in its entirety the first chapter of the Book of Genesis from King James' version wherein the story of the creation of the world and of man is detailed. The Judge said that he believed the story of the Scopes case, the Judge said that he had called the grand jury together at the request of citizens for an immediate inquiry.

Text of Indictment.
Witnesses summoned before the grand jury were Walter White, superintendent of the Dayton public schools, and eight high school students, who attended classes in biology conducted by Scopes.
The indictment as presented reads:
"That John Thomas Scopes, heretofore on the 24th of April, 1925, did unlawfully and willfully teach in the public schools of Rhea County, Tenn., which said public schools are supported in part and in whole by the public school funds of this State, certain theory and theories that deny the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible and did teach instead thereof that man has descended from a lower order of animals, he, the said John Thomas Scopes being at the time and prior thereto a teacher in the public schools of Rhea County, Tennessee, aforesaid against the peace and dignity of the State."

Chief among these was one for the abandonment of the Courthouse for the trial and the creation of a temporary structure in the baseball park which would have a seating capacity of 20,000 persons. The Judge has indicated that he would not object to such a procedure.
Indictment Expected.
Before he entered the courtroom Scopes today said he expected to be indicted and was prepared to carry on the fight to the highest courts of the State and into the United States Supreme Court if needed.
The law Scopes is charged with violating is brief, the act containing less than 100 words. In a preamble it is set forth that it is an act "prohibiting the teaching of the evolution theory in all universities, normal and other public schools, supported in whole or in part by public school funds of the State."

8000 SEALSKINS SOLD
HERE FOR $250,000
Government's Alaskan Black
Skins in Demand.
Placed on Auction—Black
Skins in Demand.
About 8000 Alaska fur sealskins, sold at auction today for the United States Government by the Fouke Fur Co., brought $250,000.
The sale was featured by the demand for the 5442 sealskins, which sold at prices 20 to 25 per cent higher than at the last sale, Oct. 15. Chatsaine D'Ore, or Golden Chestnut sealskins, placed on the market for the first time last October, and which brought a high price of $42 to $49 for medium and large sizes, today were neglected, and prices were from 35 to 40 per cent less than paid last fall. Fur men said that the skins were overbid when first placed on the market and that they could not be sold profitably at such a high price. The tendency of fashion toward conservation colors also is responsible for the demand for black skins and the decrease in value of the favorite of the last sale, they said.
About 50 buyers, representing firms in Paris, London and New York and other American cities, attended the sale. The Government which sold to E. M. Ball, assigned to the United States Bureau of Fisheries.
Prices for the black skins, dressed, dyed, machined and finished, ranged from $42 to $50 for medium and large sizes, and $27 to $30 for small. The 2186 Chatsaine D'Ore skins brought from $40 to $45 for large; $30 to $35 for medium, and $20 to $25 for small,
while the only payment received by the United States amounted to less than $15,000.00 and represented the share for which Belgium was responsible in reimbursement of the United States from German reparations collections for the costs of the American army on the Rhine.

FORMAL U. S. NOTE ON DEBT SENT TO BELGIUM Communication Reviews Whole Situation and Urges Steps Toward a Settlement.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 25.—The American Government's pressure upon Belgium for payment of its debt to this country has taken the form of a formal communication, reviewing the whole situation and urging that steps be taken toward a settlement.
It was disclosed today that such a communication had been delivered at Brussels in April, and that so far no reply had been received.
State Department officials do not expect the Belgian authorities to attempt in their reply to transfer to Germany the responsibility for some of their obligations. The Versailles treaty provided that Belgium's borrowings prior to the armistice be reimbursed by the German Government, and official advice have indicated that the point of non-payment on Germany's part would be raised by Brussels. This suggestion is not borne out by official dispatches.
In obtaining the $200,000,000 relief loan after the armistice, Belgium definitely agreed that the United States should receive terms of repayment as favorable in every way as the terms accorded any other relief creditor nation. In the case of the British relief loan to Belgium, however, a repayment amounting to approximately $40,- 000,000 already has been made,
while the only payment received
by the United States amounted to less than $15,000.00 and represented the share for which Belgium was responsible in reimbursement of the United States from German reparations collections for
the costs of the American army on
the Rhine.

Reference of the overtone to the Policy Committee marks the initial step, according to church leaders, of writing into the organic law of the denomination a stand on the question.
Work of the coast guard in its efforts to stamp out rum row was commended in acceptance by the assembly of a report of its Standing Committee on Christian Education. President Conliffe's attitude on prohibition and the "fidelity of Commissioner Haynes" also was given the formal approval of the body.
The resolution urged a continued campaign of education in behalf of law observance and the fixing of a minimum penalty for violation of the prohibition act "which will prevent judges from imposing petty fines, as some have done."

in the United States of America, making Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, the target for an attack on questionable mo-

It became available Saturday.
Dr. Scanlon's name is not men-

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

A Liberty Fund.

THE outrage of citizens by lawless police and enforcement officials has become unbearable, and the time is come to cease our mouthings against such conditions—and to act. Let us cease to be here in this outrageous chase. And become the hound, instead. It is the red revolution in time. We may as well be frank. Millions of our most earnest citizens hold to the view that our course of tyranny is leading to the shambles of revolution. We are a people who will appeal to arms when the burden of tyranny bows us too low in the dust.

To be oppressed even by law is more than enough; but when such laws become the excuse for lawless outrage at the hands of police officials, the time to resist is upon us. Arrest and insult of lawful citizens has become a sport with police officials. Not this alone, but such citizens are often assaulted in this pastime. A detailed statement of these outrages is not required. The records of the courts and the reports of the press recite the details of these injustices. And even here the worst is seldom made known. We are a people harassed for the sport of the chase, by men paid to protect us from lawlessness. And when we have suffered outrage at the hands of lawless officers of the law, what happens to them for the injuries inflicted upon law-abiding citizens? Nothing! They are not even reprimanded for conduct which should bring instant dismissal, and often imprisonment.

The lamp of liberty is ever trimmed and burning. Therefore, it is suggested that a fund be raised to be devoted to the prosecution of lawless police officials—State and Federal. Let the best legal talent in the city be retained; and these men be prosecuted under every possible charge—false arrest, assault and battery, house breaking, destruction of property, etc.

THREE CENTURIES OF AMERICAN ANCESTRY.

Gambling at Weilsdorf.

YOUR column being for the people, I wish you would please publish this letter on gambling at Weilsdorf on Easton avenue. It will at least be read by some prominent people that should be able to stop same. Our Governor, the county Sheriff and county Prosecutor surely must know that this is going on every day and every night. Why, it is nothing to hear young men boast of being out there and they are running five dice tables crowded all the time. What is this State coming to? Hoping you will give this some space in your column, I am the wife of one who must suffer because that place runs.

DISGUSTED.

Kicking the Under Dog.

WHAT is the matter with the Park Department that they are laying off men and those few men who are working are only working half time? They are starting at the wrong place to save money. Why always running five dice tables makes the least? Why not cut the salaries of the Mayor and the Commissioner and all the Commissioners? They were all raised 1920 last year. Now they are closing the tennis courts because of lack of funds. Why not issue new permits and charge everybody $2.00 to play tennis and use that money to keep men working steady on the tennis courts and then keep them open from 3 a. m. until dark and give us all a chance to play. Anyone who works won't have a chance to play at all now.

The ball players and the soccer players and golf players all have to pay, so why then the tennis? I like the game and am only too willing to pay $2.00 a season. I know a whole lot of others that feel the same way, so why not make this a ruling at once and give us all a chance to play?

Who Should Teach Children?

WHAT a pity that the world's educational system is radically unsound. Those who have been mothers or fathers are the only ones who should teach school children, and even then there should be careful selection of teachers. As it is now, children and teachers live in an atmosphere of their own imagination, lack intuition, and do not understand each other; therefore progress is slow, and the fruits of schools and universities are morbid, and lack clear understanding of life's problems. I think it was Nixon Newman who says:

"If I knew you and you knew me, And both of us could clearly see, And with an inner sight divine The meaning of our life and mine I'm sure that we would differ less And clasp our hands in friendship— Our ways would pleasantly agree. If I knew you and you knew me."

STOUT CAPTAIN AMUNDSEN.

Whether Roald Amundsen plies his air lanes into a cairn to mark his Farthest North, or sails them back to the edge of the ice pack where his ships and the world's acclaim are waiting, he has achieved high and permanent fame. His life has been a saga, and it is the polar seas claim him as toll, it ends a great story with a fitting tragedy.

The stout Norwegian sea captain will rank with those pioneers whose plows have split the remote and misty seas around the world. Born more than 300 years out of time and with little of the globe left to him, he has made the most of every opportunity. Here is a man of meager resources, save his determination, strength and courage, who was the first to stand at the South Pole, the second, if he did it, to reach the North Pole, among the first to find the north magnetic pole and one of the few ever to win through the Northwest passage, that dream of the old time navigator.

He started once before to the North Pole, but heard that Peary already had reached it and changed his course in mid-ocean, went to the South Antarctic continent, landed at the Bay of Whales and sped on an epic journey to the pole. Capt. Scott of the British navy reached the pole but a few days afterward, only to find Amundsen's flag and a deserted tent.

The son of a sea captain, educated for the practice of medicine, Amundsen's whole mature life has been spent in the waste places of the world. He has endured a temperature of 73 degrees below zero; he has hungered in the snow wastes of both Arctic regions and he has thirsted on many lonely seas. He has amassed no wealth of worldly goods and always has had great difficulty in financing his expeditions, but he has made for himself a name which people will remember as long as Drake, Magellan and Cabot are remembered.

Frankly a seeker after fame, Amundsen brought a fine equipment to the quest; robust physique, perfect nerves, unquestioned courage and a love of the desolate places. No lust for money or for the plaudits of the crowd interposed between him and his goal. He wanted to break the trail; he longed to see the things that no human eyes had seen before; he wanted to drink from the well at the world's end, and he wanted to set his flag at the poles. And he did.

THE UNSOLD IDEA.

Gaston B. Means, master salesman, will spend the next two years in prison. That this should be a matter of public interest is a tribute to his salesmanship. All his life he has striven to impress people with his importance. And when it came to selling Gaston B. Means as a personality he was "tired." He seemed to have the goods.

A business firm bought his persuasive tongue, a rich widow paid for his charming manners, the German Government sent gold marks in exchange for his ability as a spy, and finally, certain gentlemen of the Harding administration were "sold" on his genius for filthy political intrigue. During the scandal sessions at Washington after Harding's death, Gaston B. Means sold himself as a public figure. He was much in the news, his demeanor on the witness stand made good copy. A master salesman.

But when the time came for Gaston B. Means to make the most important sale of his life his smooth tongue and fascinating eyes left something lacking. It was a big deal, a very big deal. He had to sell the idea of honesty to a jury. He had to put over the idea of Gaston B. Means' integrity. To many salesmen of less vivid personal graces that would not have been a difficult matter. But Gaston Means, somehow, failed to clinch the deal. His idea remains unsold.

REBUKE.

For private citizens to receive a public reprimand from a "high official spokesman" at Washington is an unusual procedure, yet that is the distinction which has been accorded Otto Kahn, George W. Wickersham and other Americans who have allied their views recently in Paris on the subject of the French debt to the United States. Mr. Wickersham made bold to deplore the action of President Coolidge in seeking a settlement of the French debt, while Otto Kahn has been encouraging the French to take Washington's overtures lightly. The others have been equally guilty in consoling the French on the subject.

These utterances, entirely unofficial though they be, have created no little disturbance among "administration officials." Hence, the gentlemen who are responsible have been advised by the "high official spokesman" to mind their own business and permit this delicate matter of debts to be handled by the proper authorities. Their remarks, it was said further, can only muddle the situation. By the same token, the "high official spokesman" must be displeased by the many articles published in this country on the debt question, on the theory that some of these articles, sent across the water, will put wrong ideas in the French mind.

So far, the "high official spokesman" has not extended his displeasure to magazines and newspapers. But that may well be the next step. No doubt Messrs. Kahn and Wickersham will accept the rebuke offered, and be quiet in the future. But the incident is not likely to deter other mouthpieces of opinion not specifically mentioned by the "high official spokesman."

CAN FLOODS BE CONQUERED?

Efforts that began in earnest when the disastrous floods of 1923 caused $100,000,000 damage in Oklahoma have spread to a plan to curb high waters in six Southwestern states. Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, New Mexico and Colorado must all have a part in the program, if similar calamities are to be avoided in future, and already there is some unity of action, and promise of Federal aid to carry the extensive program to achievement.

This program contemplates handling each stream or river system as a unit; includes straightening and deepening channels in some instances, and providing storage basins to conserve the flood water, in others. Carried to fulfillment, much arable land will be reclaimed to cultivation, and hundreds of thousands of acres of fertile valley lands saved from the hazards of periodical floods. In addition, the water in the storage basins will serve to irrigate thousands of acres in regions where drought frequently lowers the yield.

This undertaking is expensive, but preliminary surveys pronounce it feasible, and tentative estimates place the cost at no more than half the damage wrought by the single flood of 1923. Besides preventing a recurrence of such a flood, the safeguard will greatly enhance land values along the watercourses while lands now worthless from frequent overflow will be added to the cultivated area.

Because of its magnitude, this enterprise will be slow of achievement, but the vast possibilities and the approval of engineers give promise of completion within a few years. The knowledge that floods occasion loss of life and hardships for those made homeless by the torrents, strengthens the purpose of those promoting the program. The railroads will co-operate with state and county governments and commercial organizations. This large task has waited, but it is a part of conquering the wilderness that was. Other floods may come before the work is done; may even be needed to spur the people to united action, but, in the end, they will not fail.

A CHANCE TO HIT BUREAUCRACY.

Speaking before a session of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Secretary Hoover analyzed a condition in the executive departments of the Government which has become notorious. Authority is divided. Similar services are scattered through unrelated groups. Fourteen bureaus on public works are scattered over nine different departments. Eight conservation bureaus are in five departments; 14 merchant marine agencies, in six; six educational agencies, in four; and so on.

Not only are the too numerous "floating islands" in this dismal swamp of independent agencies only technically anchored to the President's anvil in them selves, but, says Hoover, the division of authority only "multiplies the urge for expansion of Federal activities in every direction." The bureaucratic evil, like any other parasite or pest, is self-multiplying.

And why are no corrective measures taken to organize government on an efficiency basis such as prevails in any successful private business? Every President, from Roosevelt to Coolidge, Hoover testifies, has urged upon Congress a reorganization of the executive arm of the Government. Cabinet officers have pleaded for it. Congressional committees have investigated, reported and recommended. The last Republican party platform favored "a comprehensive reorganization." But nothing is done.

Here appears to be an opportunity for a venture in administration leadership which would not disturb business. Congress, more interested in patronage than in economy and efficiency, will not take the lead. The reason why nothing is done, is politics, the obstructive and wire-pulling influence of job holders. But the President was elected on an economy platform. Backed by the formal declaration of his party, he could make a tremendous appeal to the people and to business over the heads of the job holders. An opportunity not only to correct an evil of extravagance and inefficiency but to deal an effective blow to one of the most dangerous tendencies of modern government—that of a blood-sucking bureaucracy—is an opportunity the like of which does not come to every statesman.

BIGOTRY IN NEW JERSEY.

The ugly head of religious intolerance is being raised in New Jersey, where a Roman Catholic, Thomas F. McCann, is seeking the Republican nomination for Governor. His opponent is A. Harry Moore, a Protestant. In disregard of the merits of McCann, who is being stanchly supported by Senator Edge, the fight against him is being conducted by appeals to bigotry. Senator Edge, the acknowledged State leader, has espoused McCann's cause in the interest of fair play and because, as Edge himself puts it, McCann is best fitted for the nomination.

It is a sad commentary on the progress of democratic institutions that, in a country one of whose main foundation stones is the freedom of religious thought, a gubernatorial primary in the year 1925 should have to be fought on the narrow issue of a man's religion. As Senator Edge points out in reviewing McCann's long record of public service, he has served faithfully and well, and has proved himself in all things a good citizen. But no appeal to reason can influence the present-day fanatics, who are moved by the devils of ignorance and superstition.

A BIT OF FATHERLY ADVICE.

We read with a touch of superior regret the story of Miss Theima Wells by F. A. Behrmer in the True Life section of yesterday's Sunday Post-Dispatch. Miss Wells almost miraculously has made a big winning in the Texas oil field after years of gallant struggle. Having collected $400,000 for her strike we should like to feel assured that Miss Wells is leaving the oil game for good. With our more mature knowledge of life and oil, that is just what we would do.

But Miss Wells is quoted as saying that she will remain an oil speculator until she makes just one more big strike. This statement sobered us. It brought back sad, sad memories. We have seen men pass six times in a craps game and remain for just one more throw. We have stood by and watched men, their pockets stuffed with winnings from a lucky turn of the wheel, stay for just one more play on the red. We have been told by enthusiastic plungers on the stock market that just one more deal will satisfy them. They refused our advice. They would stay for just one more venture. "You were right," they tell us now, sorrowfully.

Miss Wells is young. She has $400,000. With youth and that much money there are no end of interesting things to do in the world. Will she insist on just one more strike? Our voice is humble, almost plaintive. Our advice has not been sought, but offer it we must. Pocket that $400,000, girl, and skedaddle!

The museum association wants to abolish the "museum jag" which follows people's attempts to see everything at once. Such is modernization in the industry of the dead past.

THE WAGONERIAN PROOF.

A dispatch from Minneapolis says the Minneapolis Falls immortalized by Longfellow are going dry. All right. Try this on your saxophone:

Mumble no, ye rum-soaked minions,
Vile co-workers of the Demon,
That the ten-plus-eight amendment
And the arid Volstead statute
Are as brass and tinkling cymbal.
Hiccup not to us ye tipplers,
From your sinful Vagabondia
That our glorious adventure
Is a dud, a frost, a fiver.
Turn your eyes towards Minnesota,
Fix your gaze on Minneapolis.
Lo! Our laughing Minnehaha's
On the Hiawatha wagon.

CAPRICE.

When all of our laughing is over,
And all of our weeping is done,
When we no more shall awaken
With the bright, warm kisses of the sun,
I wonder, beloved, if you will be
A flower that blooms and grows
Beside some grim old garden wall.
I wonder . . . if you'll be a rose.

Or will you be a white cloud that floats
Away from the hills to the sea?
Maybe you'll be a thin, china cup,
And I'll be affoot in your tea.

ALVIA MATTHEWS.

Sir: How important a place in our lives are our clothes given? If a man so much as wears a straw hat in December he is considered mentally unbalanced and is ostracized by society. Standing upon our head on a busy street corner would not attract so much attention and cause so much comment as wearing a "straw" out of season. Practically our only means of telling one sex from the other nowadays is by their mode of dress, and what means would we use if we chanced to meet a dainty young thing in trousers, prancing up the street with a cigarette in her mouth?

Why do we have so many divorces? The answer is clothes! Clothes and more clothes! Many a criminal has escaped under the disguise of clothes, and many a man owes his life to the fact that he was attired in a certain manner.

And lastly, what is the greatest difference between the races of the earth? Languages? Laws? Habits? Religions? No, clothes.

WASTERASKET.

Sir: The linotype is evidently a temperamental and unsympathetic machine. After a most affecting account of the illness of the Maharajah of Gwalior in Paris and the flight of King George's physician, Lord Dawson, across the Channel to operate, some thing ran amuck and the following line appears (page 3, society news):

"ESTABLISH an ah ar ah ar art . . ."

Sir: In our department there are five "buses" and two stenographers. The buses arrive each morning on time, and the stenographers are late. Sounds like a bad state of affairs, but the explanation is simple. The buses have to rely on the street car, which gets them down all right, while the poor girls are invariably delayed, as it is so hard to find a place to park their machines.

All the visitors to the national museum convention held in St. Louis last week think that St. Louis should have a natural history museum. We feel sure that posterity would be interested in seeing one of our long-nosed politicians.

PSALM OF ST. LOUIS.

The night shall be filled with thieves,
And reforms that fret the day Shall gratify the believing
In a brief ingenious way.

There will likely be arousers
In a time not far ahead—
But this is the time of the wowers,
And there's nothing to be said.

Sir: Judging by the uproar over Mrs. Andrew Jackson, Tennessee is just as devoted to legend in social as in biological history. Surely the statute of limitations on perjury for realistic treatment of the dead must run after a century or so. If any further proof were needed that Tennessee is fundamentalist right down to the ground it is supplied by their objecting to even such wild iconoclasm as the Saturday Evening Post will tolerate.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.
For lovely Phyllis I admit,
I have a tender feeling
Her eyes and smile, her lips and hair
All set my senses reeling.
But she one weakness has, and I Insist it is deplorable:
Most anything that she observes
Is fast yclept "adorable."

A mastodonian buldog with a most cavernous air
And a human-eating Zulu's revolutionary hair.

A pugilist, hyenas and a hippococcydine—
She calls them all "adorable" with a pout
That is divine.

Still I'd love to be included
With the Zulu and the zoe,
If she'd only pout and turn to me with "You're adorable, too."

From the Carrollton (Mo.) Republican-Banner.

WE received a circular letter sent out by the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, of the State superintendent, A. H. Post, in which he urged us to prevent the trial of Heber Nations, who was indicted with Charles S. Fraher by a Federal grand jury in St. Louis charged with accepting bribes from the Grisebeck brewery. The manager of the brewery openly confessed that he paid Fraher and Nations for protection in the sale of beer, and it has been reported that Fraher also has confessed.

If our memory serves us right, it was the same Heber Nations who flippantly challenged the Federal grand jury to indict him in charge of prohibition enforcement in St. Louis. But it is obvious that he has been reported that Fraher also has confessed.

If our memory serves us right, it was the same Heber Nations who flippantly challenged the Federal grand jury to indict him in charge of prohibition enforcement in St. Louis. But it is obvious that he has been reported that Fraher also has confessed.

While we are not familiar with the details of the case, to us such a frantic and hysterical appeal is prima facie evidence that the defendant is guilty and dare not risk a trial in Federal Court. Of course, such propaganda will not help his case, and his hope of vindication is before a jury of his peers. By all means, let the trial proceed in the regular way.

"SEVEN COME ELEVEN."

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON has a way of working in his tedious numbers. It will be recalled that a year ago his plan called for a reduction of surplus to a maximum of 25 per cent. Why 25 per cent? Ah, that was Mr. Mellon's own secret! And having made his own mind that 25 per cent was the proper proportion, he permitted neither his own exhortation to alter his position, nor even slashed his professional reputation upon it. What he got from Congress was a reduction to 40 per cent. Since then considerable water has passed under the bridge. Once more the Secretary has talked about reduction in the surplus. This time it is interesting to note that he has another mystical number. It is 25 per cent. No doubt he is quite as prepared to stick his professional reputation on that figure as he was on the 25 per cent plan.

What is the meaning of this? Is it 25 per cent of the surplus? Is it 25 per cent of the Mellon's secret? If it is permitted to get into the mathematical workings of the Mellon's mind, we venture the suggestion that his 25 per cent plan is merely a device about way of persuading Congress to reduce to 25 Judging from the past performance of the Mellon and of Congress, the suggestion is at least mathematically correct.

MUNICIPAL OPERA
WILL OPEN TONIGHT

"A Night in Venice" Will Transport Audience to the Sunny Adriatic.

Though overcoats and fur cloaks probably will be the proper wear tonight at the Municipal Theater, the audience will be transported in spirit to the sunny Adriatic and Italian Venetian waltzes. For the workmen to open the Municipal Theater Association's seventh season of outdoor entertainment, "A Night in Venice," a comic opera in three acts, by Johann Strauss.

General new principals will make their first appearances tonight on the Forest Park stage. These are Miss Yvonne d'Arle of the Metropolitan Opera Company; John E. Young, first comedian; Forrest Young, tenor; Leo de Hileropolis, comedienne; Miss Bernice Merahan, contralto; and Fritz von Busing, baritone. Faces familiar to former patrons will be those of Detmar Toppo, basso buffo; William J. Rogers, second comedian; and Richard Woodruff, juvenile. Six members of the St. Louis chorus will have minor roles—Leonard Barry, Louis Leo, Dolly Hyams, Miss Moerschell, Marie Lenhardt and Cecilia Schwartz.

Chorus rehearsals for "A Night in Venice" have been in progress for a month, and rehearsals of the entire production for two weeks. A dress rehearsal was held Friday afternoon and the management is confident of a well-prepared premiere. Officials of the city and State have been invited to attend the opening performance.

Strauss, the Viennese sovereign of light opera and the waltz, not only wrote the score of "A Night in Venice," but took an active hand in planning the libretto. In a series of entrancing musical numbers, many of them humorous, it relates the story of a young man who, when a barber, a cook and a chambermaid pit their wits against his machinations.

There will be a chorus of 30 Italian singers and an orchestra of 18, chosen mostly from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Charles Previn will again be at the conductor's stand, and Charles A. Hanger will once more direct the stage action.

Reserved seats for 25 cents. In the way of improvements at the auditorium, the Municipal Theater Association has installed a new comfort station at a cost of $22,000, and permanent seats in the 15-cent and free sections. For the first time chairs in the 25-cent tier are reserved, and may be purchased in advance. The entire plant has been treated to several coats of paint.

It is announced that the advance sale of tickets totals approximately 110,000, and from this alone the management, augurs a successful financial season—if the weather is favorable. For the first time the season will be extended to 12 weeks, owing to the fact that the Garden Theater in University City.

Bus Service Arranged. The United Railways, co-ordinating its service with that of the St. Louis Bus Line, has arranged for transfers from the Olive University City, and from this alone the management, augurs a successful financial season—if the weather is favorable. For the first time the season will be extended to 12 weeks, owing to the fact that the Garden Theater in University City.

New Films

By NIE.
We have been invited, in fact urged, by the managers of each of the motion picture theaters to call attention to the fact that the most modern and expensive cooling systems have been installed in the St. Louis cinema palaces. According to the only information available, which must be true for it was provided by the managers themselves, none of these massive ice plants cost less than a million dollars and in several instances the exact amount of that amount with 32 scattering precincts, normally democratic, to be heard from. Just in passing let it be remarked that, in the motion picture business, it is customary to add two noughts at the end of any figure you happen to mention except when speaking of what your own pet picture grossed last week in Buffalo, then add three. However, since the summer season is on and since the managers are so anxious to get a little piece in the paper about their ice plants there can certainly be no harm in mentioning the fact that it was delightfully cool in all of the theaters yesterday. This includes the Lyric Skydome.

Back Among the Old Folks.
SOMETHING entirely new in the way of bobbed hair, as introduced by Blanche Sweet, is the best thing about "His Supreme Moment" at the Grand Central.

West End Lyric. Skydome and Capitol. The picture itself is just a picture, being neither good nor bad but Blanche's bob is something else again. It has been cut and trimmed with the sole purpose, apparently, of being petted and caressed by handsome young leading men and is quite likely to revolutionize the worn-out methods of screen love-making. Sharing honors with Blanche's bob there is, at the Grand Central only, an Old Time Movie Show. From somewhere somebody has dug up one of the first motion picture plays, a two-reel drama called "Friends" with Mary Pickford, Henry B. Walthall and Lionel Barrymore in the cast. It is being put on this week just as it was originally shown and with a three-piece orchestra and a single projection machine. In the old days "Friends" was a western of the most pronounced dramatic type but now it is without a change having been made in it anywhere, a roaring, screaming comedy. Blanche Sweet's lovin' bob and "Friends" make the Grand Central's program a knockout.

Gentleman Jack Again.
JACK HOLT, who has been wearing flannel shirts and high-heeled boots—along with the conventional trousers and five-gallon hat, of course—for some time in pictures of the wide-open spaces drops back into dress suits and automobiles in "Eve's Secret" at the Missouri. Jack is a Duke or a Count or something in a little kingdom convenient to Monte Carlo. He hasn't forgotten all he learned in those cowboy dramas, however, and despite his dress clothes he is the best pistol shot in all Europe, a fact which proves to be of advantage when Russian noblemen come snooping around the girl he rather expects to marry. Finally in despair of finding a girl in his set who won't make it necessary for him to kill a man before breakfast every day or two he offers to make Eve, daughter of the village cobbler, a Countess. Being a Countess with nothing to count does not appeal to the young lady and so Jack dashes off a little check for half a million francs—even the authors do it in the movies—and sends her to Paris to learn how to be a lady. Eve learns a lot of things in Paris and Jack has to unlearn his, trusty six-shooter again before the happy ending. Betty Compton is Eve and Buster Collier does the best work he has ever done in the comedy role of a tailor who makes a killing at the roulette tables. The Russians, Spanish dancers, who have appeared here at the Orpheum are also on the Missouri's bill.

Not So Great.
THERE may have been some reason why the play, in play form, was called "Zander the Great," but that reason has not been put into the movie of the same name which is the attraction at Loew's State. "The Bootlegger's Bride" or even "Taming the Run Runners" would have been a better name for Marion Davies' spend-a-good-part-of-six-or-seven-reels-crying-the-same-tears-that-she-used-in-all-of-her-previous-screen-efforts, still finds time to make a little trip in a Ford from Ohio to the Mexican border, where she busts up a ring of desperate booze smugglers who had been giving all the Sheriffs in the Southwest no end of trouble for years. Love is the weapon Marion uses among the outlaws and the attention of the new St. Louis Police Board is respectfully called to the system. It might be tried by some of our more handsome policemen or Marion herself might even be invited here to make eyes at what's left of the Egan gang. No good might come of it, of course, but it worked pretty slick in "Zander the Great."

Gold Digging De Luxe.
THE best picture play in town this week is "My Wife and I," at the Kings and Rivoli. It has been made, according to announcements from a story by Harriet Beecher Stowe. Just as likely as not it was taken from that author's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," for you never can tell what the movies will do in bringing an old story in to date and "My Wife and I" is all about a little gold digger, who was no piker, who got her dresses and hats from a young man and her diamond bracelets and automobiles from his father and managed to keep the two providers from meeting until the last few minutes of the picture. Sounds like a pretty conventional sort of a story and it is, but just the same it is well done and interesting. Constance Bennett, Irene Bennett, Huntley Gordon and John Harron are in the cast.

Tom and Tony.
WHEN Tom Mix and his horse, Tony, appeared in "The Riders of the Purple Sage" at the Delmonte recently, it seemed to be a safe conclusion that they had exhausted their line of tricks—shooting, riding, rescuing women in distress and making the world a better, nobler place to live in. But such was not the case. No, indeed. This week they are right back again at the Delmonte in "The Rainbow Trail," by Zane Grey, a sequel to the other film. The picture includes a scene in which two men and a woman rout a whole tribe of Indians. Mix, wearing a 1925 cowboy shirt, is, nevertheless, a fighter of the covered wagon days and the time when men were men. The film offers many amusing scenes and the audience liked it. There is also a comedy and a stage number.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

AN AMAZING AFFRONT.
From the Carrollton (Mo.) Republican-Record.

WE received a circular letter sent out by the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, of the State superintendent, A. H. Post, the avowed purpose of which is to prevent the sale of Heber Nations, who was indicted with Charles S. Fraher by a Federal grand jury in St. Louis charged with accepting bribes from the Griesedieck brewery. The manager of the brewery openly confessed that he paid Prather and Nations for protection in the sale of beer, and it has been reported that Prather also has confessed.

If our memory serves us right, it was this same Heber Nations who flipantly challenged the Federal grand jury to indict him. His brother, Gus Nations, was at that time in charge of prohibition enforcement in St. Louis. But it is obvious that he has changed his mind, as he has published the plaintive appeal of the Anti-Saloon League in his own newspaper, the Jefferson City Daily Post.

In this circular letter, State Superintendent A. H. Post urges the recipient to write to President Coolidge TODAY, demanding an investigation of the prosecution against Nations and protesting against the trial of Nations.

SAFE BLOWERS OBTAIN $800 AT INSURANCE OFFICE

Missouri Company With Headquarters on Fourth Floor of Vanol Building Robbed.

CONGRESS THEATER
HELD UP, $410 TAKEN

Men Flee in Stolen Auto
After Theft of $250 From Box Office, $60 Taken From Manager.

A safe in the home office of the Missouri Insurance Co., on the fourth floor of the Vanol Building, Vandeventer avenue and Olive street, was blown last night and robbed of $800. The explosion tore off the outer door and left the inner door hanging by one hinge.

The robbers climbed fire escape and jumped open a window to admit them to the fourth floor, then forced an entrance into the cashier's cage where the safe was. They left behind a pair of canvas gloves and a "Jimmy." Giles H. Healy, the cashier, reported the robbery.

William Yaeger, 4415 Olive street, was waiting for the east-bound street car at Newstead avenue and Olive street at 5:30 a. m. today, when two men got behind him and in front of him and one said to the other, "Get the Harry." Yaeger who was wearing a valuable diamond in his tie, resisted and was struck on the head with a revolver and fell. At this juncture, a street car stopped at the corner and the two men fled to a parked automobile car, in which they escaped. By tracing its license number, police learned the car had been stolen at 5:15 a. m. from James Mulvaney, 5712 Mimika avenue, by three men whom he gave a lift while he was driving to work.

Congress Theater Held Up.
As Nathan Emas, 1141A North Vandeventer, drove up to his home at 8:15 o'clock last night in his Moon automobile, four armed men forced him out and drove away in his car. At 9:40 o'clock they drove up to the Congress Theater, 4023 Olive street, three men entering and a fourth staying at the wheel. One armed man reached through the ticket window, shoved Miss by looking cashier, aside and took $250. Another robber took $60 from Frank C. Tabler, the manager, in the lobby. All escaped in the stolen automobile. The movie show was not interrupted.

Harry L. Johnson, in charge of the oil station at 2781 Pine boulevard, reported a girl assisted two young men in holding him up at 12:30 a. m. yesterday. He said the three drove up in a Ford and, when he resisted robbery by the men, the girl took $127 from his pockets. He grabbed the girl's arm and twisted it, causing her to scream and drop all but $3 of the money, he said. The robbers escaped.

Five men, two showing revolvers, held up Joseph Leidman in his newspaper branch office, 4021 Olive street, at 12:30 p. m. yesterday, forced him to face a wall, and escaped with $372 in receipts.

Grocer Held Up in Store.
Two men who purchased cheese at the grocery store of Joseph Anders, 2136 College avenue, at 10:30 p. m. Saturday, returned in a few minutes with two other men, fired a shot in the floor and held up Anders and two customers. Anders declined to tell the police how much was obtained by the robbers.

Harry Rosenberg, 5600 Pershing avenue, reported he and two sisters were in his automobile on Art Hill, Forest Park, reading a letter, at 10 p. m. Saturday, when four armed men robbed him of $25 and escaped on foot, after vainly trying to start his car.

A young man who ran into the saloon of Patrick Sullivan, 5783 North Market street, and commanded three card players to "stick 'em up," ran right out again when the players heaved an ash tray and chairs at him. He ran as far as an asphalt at 5842 North Market street, where the card players captured him for police. He said he was John Conley, 19, of 1422 Francis street, a police character, now out on bond on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The card players were Sullivan and two friends, Fred Horning and Patrick Brennan.

DROPS DEAD AT SIGHT OF BODY
Awakened by Dog, He Sees Daughter Lifeless on Gas Stove.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 25.—Awakened by the barking of a pet dog in his apartment in Greenwich Village, John Angus Kerr, retired business man, today found the body of his daughter, Mrs. Madeline Secco, lying across a gas stove, the jets of which were wide open. Shocked by the sight, Kerr dropped dead from heart disease. Alexander Secco, the woman's husband, also awakened by the dog, found the bodies and turned off the gas. It is believed that Mrs. Secco faintly prepared breakfast. Kerr was treasurer of Le Dore & Co., a chemical research firm, until his retirement several years ago.

PEACE MANEUVERS TO FOLLOW WAR GAME IN THE PACIFIC

Seven Nations to Discuss Problems at Institute's Meeting at Honolulu in July.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 25.—"Joint peace maneuvers" by seven countries will follow the war game in the Pacific, when the new Institute of Pacific Relations holds its first conference at Honolulu for two weeks, beginning July 1, Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford Jr. University, chairman of the American group, announced.

This, the first Pan-Pacific conference ever held, Wilbur said, will be nonpolitical and unofficial. Prominent nationals, 150 strong, representing Canada, Japan, China, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippine Islands and the United States, will discuss common problems arising from increasing intercourse of their peoples. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Bernard M. Baruch, Wallace M. Alexander, the World Peace Foundation of Boston, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, W. Cameron Forbes, former Governor-General of the Philippines, and many other business men, publicists and educators were named among the institute's supporters. Falling Wire Kills Farmer. By the Associated Press. LOVELAND, Colo., May 25.—Peter Engleheart, 72, a farmer, was instantly killed when a high tension electric wire was snapped by the wind and dropped upon him. A cow came up to sniff at Engleheart's body and touched the broken wire, and was hurled across the road. Girl Swimmer Drowned. HUGO, Ok., May 25.—Pearl Fugate, 15 years old, was drowned while swimming in the Kiamichi River near here yesterday.

After all else failed, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought sure relief from constipation

Thousands have cleansed their systems of constipation's poisons.

Constipation exacts a telling price. Its hideous poisons lead to over forty devastating diseases. But let Mrs. Rench, of Iowa, tell her story:

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the very best I ever used for chronic constipation. I have used all kinds of medicine and nothing helped me like ALL-BRAN. It has such a nice flavor and it is cheaper than paying out hundreds of dollars seeking relief.

Yours truly,
Mrs. A. P. RENCH,
Box 187, Marion, Iowa.

Don't neglect constipation. Drive its terrible poisons out of your system.

tem. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, permanent relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal, natural action.

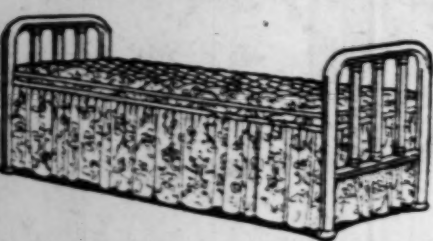

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes given on the package. Results guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

HENRY S. CRAFT

HENRY S. CRAFT, MILLER, DIES AT 80

President of Berner, Craft & Kaufman Concern, Succumbs at Home.

Henry G. Craft, president of the Berner, Craft & Kaufman Milling Co., formerly president of the St. Louis Millers' Club, died at 7:15 a. m. today at his home, 3217 Vernon avenue, aged 80 years. He was born in Suffern, N. Y., but had lived in St. Louis since his young manhood and had been prominently identified with the milling industry for half a century.

His term as head of the Millers' Club expired last March and a dinner was tendered him by the club at the Missouri Athletic Association, on his eightieth birthday, March 25, which was attended by about 200 members of the milling industry from all over the country. He was presented with a loving cup.

In 1880, he and Christian Berner formed the milling firm of Berner & Craft, which later became the Berner, Craft & Kaufman corporation. His health was good until about six months ago. He had a severe illness at that time but recovered. A second attack of asthma caused his death.

At the beginning of the Civil War he ran away to enlist as a drummer boy and served throughout the struggle.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie J. Craft, and one daughter, Mrs. James Fuller of St. Louis. The funeral arrangements have not been announced.

WANTS TO GIVE SPINNING-WHEEL EXHIBITIONS HERE

Virginia Writes to Chief of Police Inquiring as to Chances of Displaying Her Art.

Who would be interested in seeing an exhibition of the almost lost art of operating the old-fashioned spinning wheel? Chief of Police Gerke wants to know.

Yesterday the Chief received a letter from Mrs. Rose E. Kearney of Damascus, Va., who is anxious to give such an exhibition here. Mrs. Kearney is a widow with three children and very poor, she wrote the Chief. Her only accomplishment is an ability to take wool from the shearing and make it into cloth, spinning the yarn and doing the weaving herself. Because of the fact that Mrs. Kearney is poor, Chief Gerke wrote her a letter assuring her he would be on the lookout for someone who could use her services in an exhibition.

ALLEGED PLOT AGAINST LIFE OF CALLES REVEALED

Gen. Salas, Mayor and Councilmen of Mexico City Suburb Held for Treasonable Activity.

MEXICO CITY, May 25.—Gen. Salas, Mayor and all members of the municipal council of one of the suburbs of Mexico City were arrested Friday night by mounted police under orders of the Federal District Government. The Department of the Interior announces that the arrests were due to treasonable activity, the allegation being made that these men were plotting against the life of President Calles.

Those under arrest have been waging political war against the Government of the Federal District.

About the same time the police raided the home of Gen. Ireneo Ayala in Tacuba, another Mexico City suburb. They arrested two men and seized several documents, which, it is alleged, indicated that the General was attempting to organize a revolt in support of former Minister of Finance De la Huerta.

The copy of a letter to Monsignor Mora y del Rio, Archbishop of Mexico, signed by "Ireneo" as supreme commander, placing his sword at the church's service, a manifesto urging the people to support the movement and blanks for appointments to the southern revolutionary armies, are also said by the police to have been seized.

A representative of the Public Administrator's office led policemen to the home of Christ Lombricht, 6008 Hancock avenue, yesterday, in a search for hidden gold, but none was found. The representative reported to police that the office had received information of hidden treasure and as Lombricht was a patient at the City Sanitarium the Administrator desired to take charge of any fortune that might be hidden around the house. Mattresses, pictures, carpets and other places were searched at the home, but the quest yielded nothing of value.

Child Killed by Stray Bullet.

DE SMET COUNCIL TAKES LEAD IN KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS LEAGUE

Team Wins Over Columbus Club in First Place Tilt

Pacemakers in Other Circuits of Municipal Association Retain Places.

Except for the Knights of Columbus League, the leaders in all the Municipal leagues are today unchanged as a result of yesterday's games. DeSmet Council broke the first place tie with Columbus club in the K. of C. circuit by winning, 16 to 2. O'Mara held the Columbus club to five scattered hits.

The Shells and Meletios divided a double-header in the Independent League and the Kubs nine advanced to a half game of first place by trimming the Polish Falcons, 10 to 5. The Meletios still hold the lead. Yesterday's defeat was the team's first in six starts. The Motorbus nine lost its fifth straight game, being defeated by the Polish Cadets.

The double tie for first place in the City League remained when the Lischko Indians and the St. Casimirs won. Both beat last place teams, the Lischkos defeating the Mallickrods, 7 to 5, and the Saints beating Beacon A. C., 14 to 8. The Carhows dropped from third to fifth place, losing to the Lawton-Hynde-Bruners.

Twin Bill Postponed. In the Empire League, the feature double-header between the leading Typos and Y. M. H. A. teams was called off because of the cold. The Laclede won two games from the Wiles-Chippmans, while Glasco and La Salle split a double bill.

The Donnelly Stars, who gained the lead in the Mercantile League last week, fortified their position by defeating the St. Michaels. The Swifts beat Southwest, 20 to 5, and advanced to second place.

The Webb Pressmen and Schenbergs both won in the South Side League and remained tied.

DENMARK AND ENGLAND TO BATTLE THIS WEEK

By the Associated Press. PARIS, May 25.—The European zone contests for the Davis Cup enter upon their second round this week. Denmark will meet England at Copenhagen Friday. The matches between Holland and Sweden, Austria and India and France and Italy must be completed before June 10.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

To Baseball Queries?

Runners on second and third and tags the base. Runner on third, realizing his position, starts for home. Pitcher throws to catcher who tags home plate, claiming a force out. In the meantime, however, the first runner has returned to second base. This happened in a public school league game and the umpire ruled both runners safe. Was he right?—Constant Reader.

Ninth inning, time out. Runner on second. Team one run behind. What is the proper hit for the batter to try?—Marvin Elise, Moberly, Mo.

Opinions differ on the type of play to be used here. One manager might try a bunt, another might advocate trying to drive the runner around. There is no invariable course to be followed in such cases.

Runner on first base. Pitcher throws ball to the catcher, who misses it. It hits the umpire and rolls down an embankment. The runner scores from first. Umpire sends him back to first. Is he right?—Sidney Abramsky.

Unless there are ground rules to the contrary, the runner may advance as far as possible on a missed ball. The ball is in play in spite of the fact that it hit the umpire.

Batter hits a fair ball. It is deflected by the pitcher's glove and hits the umpire. Pitcher recovers it and throws the batter out at first. Umpire rules him safe. Is he right?—E. S. Rucker, Holla, Mo.

No, the ball was still in play. Must a pitcher face the batter before delivering the ball?—H. A. Yes.

Piedmont 7, Greenville 4. Special to the Post-Dispatch. PIEDMONT, Mo., May 25.—By hitting the ball at opportune times and taking advantage of their opponents' many mistakes, the Piedmont Giants yesterday defeated the Greenville 7 to 4. The Greenville aggregation to seven scattered hits. The heavy hitting and base running of French, Greenville, was a feature of the game. Score by innings: 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9 R.H.E. Piedmont, 7-0-0-0-0-0-0-0-0-12-2-0. Greenville, 4-0-0-0-0-0-0-0-0-1-1-0. Batters: Piedmont—Minko and Warren; Greenville—Ing and French.

Windows cleaned in 15 Seconds by amazing new method!

Few drops of C-it now take the place of powder, soap and water. No hard rubbing. No red, rough hands.

WINDOW WASHING was once the hardest household task. But almost overnight it has become the easiest. Dusting of a table top is no more quick and easy than cleaning windows. Rule 1 is to use C-it in place of water, soap or powder. The illustrations show you how C-it is used. In 15 seconds windows shine like clear glass. And they stay clean longer too, with no blue film to catch and hold the dirt. No other way is half so quick or easy.

Free—if it fails
C-it is pure and odorless—as harmless as clean water. But a thousand times more cleaning. You may think C-it isn't so enthusiastic about C-it. But test C-it. You'll see. But test C-it.

FRENCH ESTABLISH NEW LINES BEHIND RIVER IN MOROCCO

Withdraw From Positions
North of Stream, Creating Continuous Front to Stop Enemy Infiltrations.

By the Associated Press.

FEZ, French Morocco, May 25.

—The French troops opposing

Abd-el Krim's invading Rifian tribesmen have been withdrawn from their positions north of the Ouergha River, establishing their lines behind the protection of that stream.

The plan of the French command is to establish a continuous front, without breaks in the line,

thus guarding against infiltrations of enemy tribesmen.

The French withdrawal to new consolidated positions includes the abandonment of the five advanced blockhouses which were recently surrounded by the enemy tribesmen. The French military authorities said it was apparent the Rif-ians could continue to surround

the French posts almost at will and therefore force the French to make frequent relief expeditions. It was decided that the best strategy would be to abandon them and leave the entire French force available for general maneuvers.

The new position shortens the length of the front, affording the protection of the river against raiding parties of Rifians. The French, nevertheless, maintain all points where the river can be crossed in force.

THE THIMBLE THEATRE
NOW SHOWING—"MANAGING HIS OWN AFFAIRS"The "Red Plot" to Commune the WorldOperating Through the "Workers' Party" in America, Moscow Leaders Hope to Start Revolution in United States.

(This is the sixteenth of a series of articles dealing with the plans of the communist dictators in Moscow to overthrow existing Governments of the world.)

By PAUL SCOTT MOWBR
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and The Chicago Daily News.

PARIS, May 5.—The Moscow arch-conspirators have ultimately to provoke the same type of revolution in every country, and in every country, without exception, their organizations are being formed, their propaganda is being worked to this end and no other. However, they recognize that in some countries conditions are more "revolutionary," the workers are more responsive to communism, the chances of successful coup d'etat are much greater than in others.

For example, the country to which Bukharin refers as "the enormous robbers' league named the United States of America," they consider to be deplorably backward in a revolutionary sense—"one of the pillars of the reaction," Lenin called it. Yet this, to them, is by no means a reason for leaving the United States out of their conspiratorial calculations. On the contrary, the political and economic importance of the United States is so great that they are making very special efforts to recruit communists and to develop their "reasonable" organizations there. In this respect their records report "very satisfactory progress."

Plans for the United States. The revolutionary movement in America is just beginning," explains Zinoviev, "but that is a powerful country in every respect, and therefore even the first steps of the revolutionary movement there are of great significance."

The plan for America differs nowhere from the plan being executed elsewhere. A large and fanatical body of fighting communists is to be formed, the activities of possible opponents are to be neutralized by propaganda, and subplots, and when Moscow has reached its goal, that the time is ripe, the sworn members of the brotherhood, aided, they hope, by millions in the army and navy and by an uprising of negroes, are to overthrow the American Government by force, establish "the dictatorship of the proletariat," destroy the upper and middle classes and annex the United States of America to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

All this doubtless seems the height of absurdity to most readers. Perhaps it is the height of absurdity. I say merely that this is the plan. Anyone who persists in doubting it proves that he has not studied the words and the actions of the bolshevik leaders, or else refuses to believe their assertions and refuses to give due credit to the fanaticism and the self-sacrificing determination of the conspirative personnel.

Workers' Party of America. All the organs and auxiliaries of the third internationale, as conceived and ordered by Moscow, are represented in the United States. Communist organizations having been held by the American courts to be illegal, the "legal" communist national section has changed its name and it now "legalized" as the workers' party of America.

The communist party in America, Zinoviev attests, "is legalized under the name of the workers' party." Within the workers' party is the "illegal" or "underground" brotherhood that carries on all the conspiratorial duties which, for fear of the police and the law, have to be fulfilled secretly.

The party is divided into seventeen sections on a basis of language, for there are many foreigners in the ranks. Its leaders are William Z. Foster and Charles E. Ruthenberg—"the two best men we have in America"—in whom Moscow professes to have "great faith." Its principal representative on the executive committee of the Third Internationale in Moscow is Israel Antler. Its chief adviser in the task of exciting the race passion of the Negroes is the American negro, Mackay. It has newspapers that publish all important communist documents in accordance with Moscow's instructions. It has auxiliaries—the "pioneers" or communist Boy Scouts, the League of Communist Youth for schooling and testing future communists, its women's organizations, its farmers' organization, its various relief and propaganda organizations. It submits blindly to the dictatorship and the discipline of Moscow, reprimanding or expelling members of those conduct Moscow does not approve and humbly receiving a "plenipotentiary" of the executive committee from Moscow, whose business it is to make sure that Moscow's orders are promptly and fully obeyed. Constant communications with Moscow are maintained in secret code by mail, cable and special courier.

Much Secret Plotting in America. The principal tasks of the party for the moment are organization, agitation, propaganda and recruiting. As the main organization is complete, it is the detail, the formation of germ cells in army and navy and in the factories, which is chiefly occupying the leaders. Agitation is actively under way upon every occasion. Agents are busy among the Porto Ricans and in the Philippines with incitations to rebellion—"Free Porto Rico," "Free the Philippines," are American communist slogans.

"The training of black agitators," Trotsky told the negro, Mackay, more than two years ago, "is the most important revolutionary problem of the moment." Since then, the enthusiasm of the Moscow conspirators for the idea of arousing America's 12,000,000 negroes against the white "bourgeoisie" has greatly increased, and great efforts are certainly, though secretly, being made in this cause.

American communists have instructions to keep crying out against "American imperialism" in Central and South America, to denounce the peace treaties, the French colonial army, and "European imperialism," as well as to demand money, sympathy and recognition for soviet Russia.

Knowing the American indifference toward children, the leaders have their "pioneers" parade the streets of New York and a "boy orator" preach communism to the crowd in Madison Square. In Chicago, a socialist meeting in favor of the Russian socialist exiled by the soviet government is broken up by communists and the efforts of the police to restore order are hailed by fanatical woman members of the conspiracy as "American comrade rule."

Appeals to the I. W. W. Now that Gompers, who was held by the Moscow conspirators to be the soul of American labor's resistance to communism, is no more, their hopes of making rapid progress within the American labor unions are greatly multiplied. Their leading agency for propaganda among non-communist American workmen is the League of Trade Unions, as the following excerpt from the official Moscow Pravda makes sufficiently clear:

"At yesterday's session of the executive bureau of the Red Internationale of Trade Unions, a report was heard on the condition of affairs in the American trade union movement and in particular on the work of the League of Trade Union Propaganda, which is conducting revolutionary propaganda in the American trade unions, and on the recently terminated congress of the Industrial Workers of the World. . . . The executive bureau resolved to consider it necessary to issue a special book on the League of Trade Union Propaganda and books dedicated to the Industrial Workers of the World, explaining the gist of the resolutions that were proposed at the congress. The international propaganda committee was instructed to establish connections directly with the appropriate industrial groups composing the Industrial Workers of the World."

Such documents as the two just quoted need no commentary. Once the reader's eyes are opened to the interesting subject, he has only to look about him. The newspapers before the end of the present year will afford him plenty of material. He will soon be able to make up his mind as to how active the red conspirators are in the United States and whether or not they are seriously preparing, as they profess, civil war.

Helping the School Child

By EMILIE HOFFMAN.

Now is the time to have a talk with the teacher and ascertain the prospects of your child in the coming examinations. A little more concentration in home-helps may mean much to the backward pupil.

About this time of the year this class of pupils realize their delinquencies and most of them develop a real desire to make up. While this spirit of enthusiasm registers high is the time for parents to take a real interest in the child's efforts and to help in every possible way.

See that every advantage for undisturbed study is accorded the child and have him do this work under able supervision. Do not waste time with subjects familiar to him. Clear up perplexing details for him and help him to understand—this lack of understanding the work is often the real cause of failure. The teacher will gladly guide you in your efforts to raise the child's standing. The instructor will know the pupil's fallings and needs.

You will be surprised how much can be accomplished along these lines even so near the end of the term. Close application to study during these remaining weeks may mean promotion to the child whose prospects are very slim just now. It will give a certain feeling of confidence, and the child will not be so liable to enter upon the examinations with frayed nerves that make him incompetent to think or reason rationally.

Good tutoring during these weeks may mean a term, possibly a year, less of school life for the child, and this counts when estimated at the end of the educational course. Consult the teacher about a tutor or you will be sure to get the best possible help for the young student. And if you pay for a tutor do not think this covers your duty. It will still be necessary for you to encourage the child and to make home study a pleasant occupation. Take a lively interest in his progress and always commend good achievement.

Bribery is not an element of good child training, but it is a wonderful incentive to children of this class. The promise of a scooter, a bicycle or a wrist watch to John or Mary, if they are promoted will spur them on to their very best efforts and in many cases to success. Just a promise to grant a much coveted pleasure in case of promotion will be sufficient to encourage the backward pupil to strenuous efforts. And this would be bribery well applied.

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

By Mildred Ash

A WOMAN'S past matters not nearly so much as does her future, seems to be the opinion of the French style authorities, who are showing decidedly futuristic tendencies in women's sport fashions. The latest heavy silk crepe sport frocks are two-piece, the skirts being of solid tone and the blouse back-black in a brightly colored print featuring the most daring cabaret designs.

"Turn About's Fair Play," so it's quite the thing for a taffeta coat to reverse conditions and appear cloth side out in the morning and silk surface to the fore for afternoon or evening wear. The lining of such a taffeta coat is of a soft wool fabric.

Stepping in "Step-ins" is doubtless a new experience for women accustomed to having their corsets or girdles hooking in the time-honored fashion. Step-in corsets, made from horizontal bands of elastic with light boning at back and sides and a silk broche section in front, give the figure a trim appearance and a supple grace difficult to combine.

The Pam Key, the fashion's inner shrine of military sport models, is to be found in the charming little gilt metal key used to ornament the front of the latest felt hats, with tiny brims and molded crowns. This novelty pin is quite different from the jeweled ones that are too generally used to retain their exclusive style.

Pointing the Way to the youthful smartness of the simple, solid color, chiffon frock, a deep lace yoke is pointed all around. These points are so long that they extend nearly to the low waistline. The filmy lace used is either of a deep cream or tinted the tone of the dress.

Mayonnaise.

BREAK an egg in a small deep bowl (quart size), add one-half teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful paprika, one-quarter teaspoonful mustard and one-half teaspoonful powdered sugar. Stir thoroughly. Then add one and one-half tablespoonfuls each, lemon juice and vinegar and beat in from one and one-half to two cupfuls salad oil, beginning a few drops at a time and using an egg beater. When the mixture begins to thicken the oil can be added by tablespoonfuls. When all is in, add one tablespoonful boiling water to hold the mixture together. This will keep indefinitely in a cool place if kept in covered jars.

Asparagus Salad.
Cut six rings of green pepper or lemon about one-third of an inch wide. If lemon is used, remove the pulp, leaving only the peel. Slip four stalks of cold cooked asparagus (fresh or canned), through each ring, and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with French dressing to which one-half teaspoonful tomato catsup has been added.

Nut Bran Muffins.
Mix together one cupful bran flour, one-half cupful white flour, two teaspoonfuls sugar, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-half teaspoonful salt and one cupful of finely-chopped nuts. Add one and one-half tablespoonfuls melted butter, moisten with sweet milk, beat thoroughly, drop from a spoon, allowing space between each or bake in muffin tins in moderate oven.

Oatmeal Cookies.
Mix one cupful hard, two eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt, two cupfuls brown sugar, six tablespoonfuls sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, four cupfuls flour, two cupfuls oatmeal, one teaspoonful cinnamon. Stir thoroughly and if desired add nuts or chopped fruit. Bake in spoonfuls in hot oven.

Good for Paint Brushes.

If you are using a new brush for the spring painting turn it bristles upward before you use it, separate the bristles and pour in a spoonful of good varnish. Keep it in that upright position until dry. This treatment will prevent the annoyance of shedding bristles while you are painting. The varnish also acts as a preservative so the brush is not so liable to fall to pieces and it will not shrink.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

What Scrapper Did to King Eagle

True dignity is fine, and yet 'Tis very easy to spend.

—Peter Rabbit.

Again King Eagle had missed a breakfast for those hungry eaglets.

THE truth of this King Eagle knows. He knows it well. You see it has more than once happened to him. Yes, sir, the dignity of King Eagle, and he has a great deal of dignity, has been upset more than once. And never was it more upset than when Scrapper the Kingbird drove him from the Old Orchard. It had been bad enough to "miss Peter Rabbit, and that was due to the warning Scrapper had given him. There is always a loss of dignity in rushing for a thing and missing it. This had been bad enough but it had been worse, oh, very much worse, to be driven, actually driven, away by one so small that he would have hardly made more than a good mouthful.

King Eagle had known just how undignified he appeared as he dodged this way and that way, and all the time hurried as fast as his great wings could take him to get away from that little pest who managed to keep just above him, and kept striking him on his back and between the shoulders. It was the fact that Scrapper was so small that made it impossible for King Eagle to fight back.

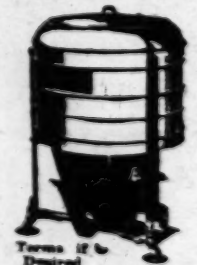

When at last King Eagle got rid of Scrapper the Kingbird his dignity was wholly upset. But Scrapper had done more to King Eagle than upset his dignity. Yes, sir, he had done more than that. He had made King Eagle lose his temper. It is bad enough to see a small person lose his temper, but it is very much worse to see a big person lose his temper. King Eagle had lost his completely by the time he was high enough in the blue, blue sky to get rid of Scrapper. With every stroke of his great wings he grew angrier.

Orchard was quite unbearable. At least that is the way King Eagle felt about it.

His eyes grew bright with anger as he continued on his way looking for a breakfast for those two hungry children back there in the big nest in a tall tree on the Big Mountain. They must be fed. "For in the distance he could see their mother, high in the sky. She also was hunting and he knew that as yet she had had no success. Those young Eagles had had no breakfast, and until they had eaten he himself could eat nothing.

Once as he swung in circles high over the Big River he saw a fish lying on a sandy beach. He had just started to set his wings and glide down to get it when Reddy Fox came out from the bushes, picked up that fish and darted back into the bushes. Again King Eagle had missed a breakfast for those hungry eaglets, and he knew that it was his own fault. Twice he had swung around above that fish without seeing it because he had been so much occupied with his hungry thoughts. Had he seen

To have his babies over on the Big Mountain cheated of the Rabbit breakfast he had felt so sure of catching for them was hard enough to bear, but to be made ridiculous in the eyes of all the little feathered folk in the Old that fish the first time, as he should have, he would have reached it before Reddy Fox.

So King Eagle kept on his way more angry than ever. And because he was so angry he wanted to make some one else suffer. Isn't it too bad that anger so often works that way? It really does, you know. Presently, far ahead of him above the Big River a fisherman appeared. King Eagle's eyes gleamed. Then he saw another. They were Plunger the Osprey and Mrs. Plunger. Often they are called Fish Hawks. King Eagle mounted higher in the blue, blue sky. He mounted higher and higher on those broad wings of his and at the same time flew toward Plunger and Mrs. Plunger.

DORIS, meanwhile, was watching the summer days go by with listless eyes. She found it impossible to shake the apathy which gripped her. She told herself that it was the inevitable reaction after the strenuous weeks when she had devoted all her time to the pageant—all the time except that she gave to Craig Cullam.

But other, worthy causes arose and failed to claim her interest. She withdrew her name from committees one by one. She wrote checks, where heretofore she had given active personal service.

Isobel, who had serenely transferred her attention from the relief of homeless cats, tried in vain to strike a spark in Doris's humanitarian soul.

"I'll give you a check toward establishing a home for the poor, but I'm too tired to go around catching them in butterfly nets, or whatever you do," she said Isobel.

"Don't be a facetious fool!" snapped Isobel. "I want you to help me arrange a garden party at Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering's suburban place—the proceeds to go to the relief fund. You know so many wealthy people and you have such working executive ability—it's criminal to hide your talent under a bushel!"

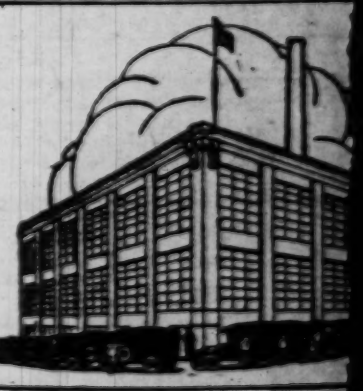

"I tell you I'm worn out," Doris insisted. "I had no vacation out of town last summer and I've worked like a Trojan ever since. I must get away somewhere."

"London!" suggested Isobel, sitting down. Doris flushed crimson, to her own annoyance, but she managed to express perplexity with her raised brows.

"Craig Cullam ought to be smiling soon," remarked Isobel casually. "I saw him on the street in front of the theater yesterday. He didn't see me until I spoke, and he was looking like he does in that big scene on the stage, perfectly ruthless and cruel and mad enough to bite back."

Doris made no comment, and Isobel went away more puzzled than ever. That night Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering phoned Doris while Jervis was calling.

GONE!
DORIS, meanwhile, was watching the summer days go by with listless eyes. She found it impossible to shake the apathy which gripped her. She told herself that it was the inevitable reaction after the strenuous weeks when she had devoted all her time to the pageant—all the time except that she gave to Craig Cullum.

But other worthy causes arose and failed to claim her interest. She withdrew her name from competition one by one. She wrote checks, where heretofore she had given active personal service.

Isobel, who had serenely transferred her attention from the completed pageant to a campaign for the relief of homeless cats, tried to strike a spark in Doris's humanitarian soul.

tired being put off year after year. Either you accept me before you go away, or you say 'No' once and for all, and end our friendship forever. I won't hang on any longer and let you wreck both our lives. I'll never love any girl but you—but, by gad, I'll marry one of them and have a home at last."

Doris accepted the inevitable with a little resigned sigh. She felt very lonely and forlorn. Jervis was the only one left to cling to. She couldn't renounce his friendship. At the end of August, she promised him that she should have his answer and she knew that it would be what he wished.

Two days later, hurrying down the avenue, she found herself suddenly in front of the theater where Craig Cullum played.

She started and almost stopped at sight of the familiar facade. Crimmon flooded her cheeks. Suppose he should be just coming out—

Suddenly she realized that the great poster showing his handsome features, his lithe length in the dashing uniform of the role, was missing. The billboards were down. The theater closed and dark with a tacked-up poster announcing the reopening Sept. 20.

Doris reeled momentarily—to the anxiety of a passer-by. Without a word—

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

To Stop Bleeding.
Sometimes it is difficult to stop the flow of blood after a tooth has been extracted. If powdered alum is applied to the cavity it will stop the bleeding.

Handy at All Times.
Use a cheap teapot to melt your paraffin in and keep it for that purpose. The paraffin will pour easily just where you want it, and what you do not use can remain for another time.

Don't Chance It.
If you are afraid your blankets will shrink in the spring washing, dry them on the curtain stretchers. This is a little more effort, but it will repay you, particularly if your blankets are inclined to be a rather close fit for your bed.

If the candles you have had out all winter are soiled by otherwise perfect, saturate a cloth with alcohol and rub the candles. All soil will be removed and the luster retained. They can then be wrapped and put away for next winter's usage.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST
By ALINE MICHAELIS

SHIPS AT SEA.
THE tide is rough, the gray sky scowls, and on the raving blast where every Fury shrieks and howls, the clouds ride thick and fast. Yet I turn not away my face, nor seek a quiet path, for me the waiting wind's embrace, the sea's incessant wrath. And, could I gain some spot serene, some quiet, restful glade, where through the leafy isles of green the sun and shadow played, where every breeze was mild and kind, where song and fragrance blent I still would breast this bitter wind and struggle on, content. I cannot turn my face away from all this agony of storm-tossed wave and leaping spray, for I have ships at sea. And so I wait through cruel gale in strange serenity, I guide a Force that cannot fall guides home my ships to me.

A few years ago women were barred from working in factories, offices, etc., in Japan, but today there are more than a million of them employed in jobs formerly held by men.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.
Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word.
Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.
Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.

Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white space allotted to it.
Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

SCIENTISTS CONFIDENT AMUNDSEN WILL RETURN

Arctic Exploration Experts Display Strong Optimism—Making Research, Is View of Dr. Hesselberg.

WEATHER STILL LESS FAVORABLE

Reports From America of Proposed Relief Parties and Air Hunt Cause Amusement in Norway.

OSLO, Norway, May 24.—A telegram received here today by the shipping Gazette from Spitzbergen, said the explorer Amundsen had not returned from his North Pole flight this morning.

Weather conditions continued less favorable, it was reported.

By H. SUNDBY-HANSEN, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OSLO, Norway, May 24.—Among authorities on Arctic exploration strong optimism prevails here concerning Amundsen's return from the Pole. Not a single scientist or explorer has expressed the slightest doubt, or even betrayed anxiety.

Dr. Theodore Hesselberg, director of the Oslo Meteorological Institute and foremost weather authority, is typical of this attitude. His view is particularly interesting as he is one of the Board of Scientists who verified Amundsen's South Pole observations.

Hesselberg was seen by your correspondent today and asked whether he felt anxious.

No Reason for Misgivings.

"What is there to be anxious about?" he asked. "There is no reason for misgivings. When Amundsen reached the South Pole he used the greatest part of his limited time in exact location of the pole. I feel sure that he is occupied in careful researches which, of course, take time."

Dr. Hesselberg spoke in an easy, matter-of-fact way, as if discussing a voyage across the Atlantic.

Reports from America suggesting relief expeditions and search parties are regarded by informed and experienced explorers with amusement, although there is, of course, increasing public concern and much general talking of attempts at rescue.

Airplane Search Madness.

The suggestion of an airplane search is greeted in many quarters with benighted surprise. Amundsen has spent years preparing for his expedition, getting exactly suitable planes, choosing the ideally propitious moment, after months of unfruitful waiting in successive seasons, and with elaborate base and supply arrangements. The notion that a plane hastily equipped could go to the rescue with the slightest hope of success or even safe return is regarded as complete madness.

If Amundsen, with all his studied preparation, has failed or got himself into a situation requiring rescue, it is certain no plane would have any reasonable chance to reach him.
